CHEETAHS TO MOVE TO BIGGER ENCLOSURE IN KUNO PARK

Bhopal: The eight cheetahs flown to Madhya Pradesh's Kuno National Park (KNP) from Namibia in mid-September will be moved to an acclimatisation enclosure in November before being released in the wild, a member of the Centre's task force on the big cats said on Monday. He said the cheetahs will be released in a phased manner and added the task force took the decision after lengthy discussions | P11

BRAZIL'S LULA BEATS BOLSONARO TO PRESIDENCY

Brazilians delivered victory to Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva in a bitter presidential polls, giving the former president another shot at power in a rejection of incumbent Jair Bolsonaro's far-right politics. Lula received 50.9% of the vote and Bolsonaro 49.1%, according to the country's election authority. Bolsonaro's campaign had made repeated claims of electoral manipulation before the vote, raising fears that if he lost, he would try to challenge the results | P14

RBI TO LAUNCH ITS FIRST PILOT OF DIGITAL CURRENCY TODAY

Nine banks, including SBI, HDFC Bank and ICICI Bank, will issue the virtual currency for transactions in government securities

E-RUPEE FOR RETAIL SEGMENT WITHIN A MONTH

"The first pilot in the digital rupee — wholesale segment shall commence on November 1, 2022," RBI said in a statement on Monday. The banking regulator also announced that the maiden pilot in digital rupee for the retail segment would be launched within a month in select locations in closed user groups comprising customers and merchants | P15

LIMITED USE TEST IS FOR GOVT SECURITIES

- The use case for the pilot is settlement of secondary market transactions in government securities, RBI said
- Settlement in central bank money would reduce transaction costs by pre-empting the need for settlement guarantee infrastructure or for collateral to mitigate settlement risk

Kannada flags go on sale, on the eve of Kannada Rajyotsava, in Bengaluru on Monday | SHASHIDHAR BYRAPPA

Kannada flags to paint state red & yellow today

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

AHEAD of the 67th Kannada Rajyotsava celebrations on Tuesday, the state government has made arrangements to ensure that Kannada flags proudly flutter in all villages, schools, colleges and government offices in every nook and corner of the state.

Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai said the day-long celebration will witness the state's highest civilian award - the Karnataka Ratna - being confrred on late actor Puneeth Rajkumar at Vidhana Soudha, besides 67 dignitaries receiving the Rajyotsava awards.

Interacting with reporters on the eve of the Rajyotsava Day, the CM said the state government is committed to celebrating the day in a more meaningful way. "A big event will be hosted by the state government in the morning in Bengaluru," he said. Meanwhile, 'ManeManeGalaMeleKannadaBhavuta' (Kannada flags on every house) was trending on social media, with netizens appealing to people to hoist flags at their houses. Many dignitaries and celebrities including Tamil film superstar Rajnikanth and Telugu movie star Junior NTR are expected to attend the event.

In the evening, Rajyotsava awards will be presented to 67 personalities in recognition of their contribution to their respective fields at Ravindra Kalakshetra. Meanwhile, some legislators are distributing Kannada flags to people in their constituencies. Minister for Higher Education and IT/BT, Dr C N Ashwathnarayan, who is also the Malleswaram MLA, said his office is distributing flags along with sweet boxes.

WISCONSIN TO HERALD KANNADA RAJYOTSAVA

Emphasising the importance of Kannada, the Governor of the US state of Wisconsin, Tony Evers, has declared that his state will celebrate November 1 as Kannada Language and Rajyotsava Day. In a proclamation letter, Evers acknowledged that Kannada is one of the oldest languages. P8

9 held as Guj bridge toll tops 140

Police prima facie blame it on technical and structural flaws besides maintenance issues

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA
@ Ahmedabad

WITH the toll in the Morbi suspension bridge collapse on Sunday climbing to 141, the police arrested nine persons tasked with managing the structure, for dereliction of duty after booking a case againt them.

Dramatic visuals from an amateur video of the holiday crowd on the bridge as its suspension wires gave way, brought the horror to the nation's drawing rooms. There were reports of a few youth intentionally shaking the bridge just to get some extra kick from their perch 60 ft above the river. Complaints to the staff to discipline them were not acted upon.

Rescue operations continued through the day. "Nine persons have been arrested so far — two managers and two ticket booking clerks, two contractors and three guards of the Oreva group that was managing the bridge," Rajkot Range Inspector General Ashok Yadav said. He said technical and structural flaws and some maintenance issues were prima facie responsible for the tragedy.

Prime Minister Narendra Modi chaired a high-level meeting on the tragedy at Raj Bhavan in Gandhinagar. It was decident observe state-wide mourning on Wednesday. No public events will be held that day.

Search and rescue work on at the bridge collapse site in Morbi on Monday | AP

The Morbi Municipality had given Oreva a 15-year contract for the bridge's management and maintenance. Their contract signed on March 5 last mandated Oreva to renovate it within 8-12 months.

Oreva is said to have spent ₹2 crore on the renovation and was so keen to monitise it that it allegedly opened bridge on October 26 to mark the Gujarati New Year without a fitness certificate. Sandeepsinh Jhala, chief officer of Morbi Municipality, said, "We did not issue a fitness certificate as Oreva failed inform us about the renovation or the materials used."

The contract specified that the cost of the ticket would be ₹15 per adult and ₹10 per child below 12 during the 2022-23 and would be increased by ₹2 each year for the next six years. Yet, tickets sold on Sunday evening were already up by ₹2.

The Oreva group specialises in CFL bulbs, wall clocks and e-bikes. Founded by Odhavji Raghavji Patel nearly five decades ago, it manufactures wall clocks under the popular Ajanta and Orpat brands. It is not known how it managed to get the bridge contract.

12 OF FAMILY OF BJP MP DROWNED

Mohan Kundariya, BJP's Lok Sabha member from Rajkot, lost 12 of his relatives in the bridge collapse. "Twelve members of my family had gone to visit the picnic spot as it was Sunday when tragedy struck. Four daughters of the brother-in-law of my elder brother, the husbands of three of them, and five children were killed in the accident," he said | P11

Delhi Police search The Wire editors' houses

UJWAL JALALI @ New Delhi

DELHI Police on Monday searched the residences of the editors of news website The Wire, in connection with an FIR filed on the complaint of BJP IT cell head Amit Malviya.

The raids were conducted by the Delhi Crime Branch at the residences of founder editors Siddharth Varadarajan, Sidharth Bhatia and M K Venu, and deputy editor Jahnavi Sen.

Sources said in the raids, the police seized mobile phones, tablets and laptops. "A probe was carried out and no arrests were done," an official said.

Malviya complained that the media company tried to tarnish his and his party's image through a news story. "I am filing the present complaint for the offences of cheating and forgery for the purpose of harming the reputation, using as genuine a forged document or electronic record and defamation amongst other provisions of IPC," the complaint read.

The Wire had published the first of four articles (all now retracted) on October 6, claiming that Meta (Facebook parent) had removed an Instagram post immediately after uploading it by an Instagram private account namely 'Cringe-archivist'.

The post was about a recently built temple dedicated to Uttar Pradesh Chief Minister Yogi Adityanath in Ayodhya.

Sukesh: Paid ₹10cr to AAP leader

UJWAL JALALI @ New Delhi

INCARCERATED conman Sukesh Chandrashekhar has claimed that he has paid ₹10 crore to jailed Aam Aadmi Party minister Satyendra Jain as "protection money".

In a letter addressed to Delhi Lieutenant Governor V K Saxena, Chandrashekhar said he had known the AAP leader since 2015. The letter added that a total amount of ₹50 crore was paid to the AAP as he was promised an important party position in south India.

"After my arrest in 2017, I was lodged in Tihar Jail and was visited multiple times by Mr Satyendra Jain, who held the portfolio of jail minister... In 2019 again, I was visited by Jain, whose secretary asked me to pay ₹2 crore every month as protection money and to get basic facilities inside the jail," the hand-written letter of Chandrashekhar, which was sent through his lawyer, read. P11

Golden Chariot to roll again

So far, 30 bookings have been confirmed for the inaugural trip

BOSKY KHANNA @ Bengaluru

HERE'S some good news for those bitten by the travel bug. After a gap of one year, the state-owned luxury express—Golden Chariot— will roll out on the tracks from November 20. But this time there is a twist. Apart from the new look, it has a new destination— Chikkamagaluru, whereas Shravanabelagola and Belur have been dropped from the list. Also, instead of starting from Yeshwanthpur, it will depart from newly-inaugurated Sir M Visvesvaraya Terminal. Reason: It has proximity to the airport and makes boarding easier for international tourists, according to tourism and railway department officials. Interior colours of the renovated train have changed from purple and golden to red and black. The Indian Railways Catering and Tourism Corporation (IRCTC), which also operates Maharaja Express, has brought in modifications which includes free Wi-Fi. The exterior of the train however remains the same. For relaxation of tourists, there is an ayurvedic spa, two restaurants (operated by Ruchi and Nalapaka) and liquor counters. P9

KIA clocks 5-fold increase in global travellers

Numbers go up from 55L in H1 2021-22 to 1.40 crore in first half of current FY

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

A clear trend towards a surge in air travel is witnessed across Karnataka, according to data released by the Airports Authority of India (AAI) for the first half of this fiscal.

Statistics reveal that from April-September of 2022-2023, a total of 15 crore domestic and international passengers (15,00,44,013) have taken to the skies from all airports across India as compared to just 6.36 crore (6,36,62,702) during the corresponding period last year.

Bengaluru's Kempegowda International Airport (KIA)'s passenger share in this comes to 1,39,93,742 as compared to 55,60,468 from April to September 2021-2022. The clear trend discernible in Bengaluru is that of global travel which has shown a nearly five-fold increase over its figures in the previous financial year. It has recorded 16,77,541 international travellers as compared to just 3,26,535 earlier.

On the domestic front too, KIA has recorded double the number of the previous fiscal. Passenger data reveals that 1,23,16,201 passengers have travelled from Bengaluru to different parts of India in the six months beginning April, as compared to 52,33,933 during the months last year. Mysuru and Mangaluru airports almost have recorded three times the numbers flying in the first half of this financial year as compared to the previous year, which was impacted by the pandemic.

Delhi, Mumbai, Goa and Chennai airports hold the top four positions.

The month of September has been extremely good for air travel in the state. KIA has seen 24,06,879 travellers as compared to just 13,07,562 during the same month last year.

Aviation expert Captain Mohan Ranganathan, however, has a word of caution on this trend. "This boom in travel is more the effect of the lockdown syndrome for nearly 2.5 years. Everyone wants to just get out and travel. The majority of travellers are the business class who have been doing work-from-home (WFH) for long. Air travel has become expensive and family travel has actually dipped. A ticket between Bengaluru and Goa is today Rs 15,000 as compared to just Rs 3,000 earlier. It is impossible for a family to travel on such prices and it is not going to decrease in future," he said.

Traffic restrictions on Dr BR Ambedkar Road today

In view of the event to honour actor Puneeth Rajkumar with the 'Karnataka Ratna' on the grand steps of Vidhana Soudha on Tuesday, the Bengaluru Traffic Police has issued the following traffic advisory:

No vehicles will be allowed on Dr BR Ambedkar Road (in front of Vidhana Soudha) from Balekundri Circle to KR Circle from 2 pm to 10 pm

Commuters are requested to avoid coming from Balekundri Circle, Meese Thimmaiah Circle and KR Circle towards Vidhana Soudha and are advised to take alternative routes

Parking of vehicles is prohibited on Dr BR Ambedkar Road, Infantry Road, Ali Asker Road, Palace Road, Cubbon Road, Raj Bhavan Road, Queen's Road and Cunningham Road

Public attending the event can use the services of BMTC buses and Metro

Potholes: Is BBMP shirking responsibility?

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

A youth died after he was hit by a car which overturned while trying to avoid a pothole in Yelahanka | EXPRESS

INFRASTRUCTURE experts have criticised the BBMP for "shirking" its responsibility as far as the city's road infrastructure is concerned. The BBMP had blamed the KSRTC for the death of a 47-year-old woman and a car driver for the death of a man in the two recent road accidents in the city.

In the first case, Uma Devi died after a KSRTC bus ran over her. The accident happened when the two-wheeler she was riding pillion with her daughter, Vinitha, skidded and fell while trying to avoid a pothole.

In the second accident, Arshad from Kerala died after he was hit by a car which overturned while trying to avoid a pothole in Yelahanka.

In the first case, the BBMP had stated that as per police records, the KSRTC bus driver was at fault. In the second case, BBMP Commissioner Tushar Girinath had said that the car driver was responsible for the death of Arshad. The Palike is not ready to accept the fact that pothole-riddled roads caused the two deaths.

Urban expert Ashwin Mahesh said, "Nobody believes Palike's statements related to such accidents."

He said the Palike failed in fixing potholes as and when they appeared. "The best way to fix the problem is to give 'forward contract'. Here, a contractor is engaged in advance to ensure that a pothole or crater is fixed as soon as it is noticed. I had suggested this in 2010 to the BBMP. A traffic constable will identify such spots in his jurisdiction and once the contractor fixes them, a local BBMP engineer should approve the work done. But this suggestion was rejected by the BBMP Council in its very first meeting." he added.

He said the BBMP goes for "responsive mechanism" whereas the need of the hour is "rapid response". Potholes may cause fatal accidents. The civic body should be held accountable for bad roads. There should be compensation and punitive action for such accidents."

MN Shreehari, road traffic expert, said, "Due to bad roads and slow traffic, Bengaluru is losing a revenue of Rs 19 crores (calculated on productive time lost). There is no accountability and projects are not executed in a scientific way. Moreover, there is no proper audit."

'Slow pace' of road work hits biz in Indiranagar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

HIT by the pandemic in 2020 and 2021, traders and business establishments in Indiranagar are now facing losses due to the BBMP's white-topping project at 100 feet road, which is going on at a snail's pace.

Traders want the Palike to complete the project before the New Year to tap in to the Christmas business. They had already seen their business plummet during Deepavali as the road and footpaths were not fixed.

The civic body had first executed the project from CMH Road to Lakshmipuram, and then started on Old Madras Road Junction connecting Indiranagar 100 feet road to Domlur-Koramangala Junction Road. But the snail pace of the work has impacted business on the stretch.

"It is a development project, and should be completed within a time frame. The authorities have initiated the project after the Deepavali festival and we want them to finish it in the next 15 days. Our business peaks only during October to December, and delay in the project will impact business," said Niranjan Pareek, owner, Bhartiya Jal Pan. He added that business has taken a hit by 50%.

Echoing the same, another trader said due to bad roads and damaged footpaths, there is a slump in customers, and requested the BBMP to complete the project at the earliest.

While traders are hoping that the palike completes in the next 15 to 20 days, BBMP (Projects) Chief Engineer Lokesh M said the work is going on at full speed and it will take another two months to be completed.

Now, book Metro tickets on your phone

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

FROM November 1, Metro commuters need not stand in long queues just for single-journey tickets, but can instead buy them through WhatsApp or the Namma Metro app. A discount of 5% on the token fare will be given for the digital tickets, which will be launched on Tuesday to mark Kannada Rajyotsava.

To book tickets though WhatsApp, commuters should save the official BMRCL chatbot number 810 555 66 77 and send a message like 'hi'. The chatbot is available for both Android and iOS in both Kannada and English languages.

The following features are available on the chatbot -- option to converse in English and Kannada, purchase of QR tickets, recharge of Metro Smart Cards, journey planner (to locate the nearest Metro station, train departure timings at different stations and fare info between two stations), customer feedback and native payment experiences through WhatsApp UPI for quick and seamless payments.

To buy tickets through Namma Metro app, commuters with Android operating system should download the app from the Google Play Store and register themselves.

The entry and destination stations needs to be specified to get a QR ticket. "Such QR tickets on the mobile phone must be flashed at the QR readers of the automatic fare gates at both the entry and exit stations," an official release said.

The validity of the mobile QR tickets will last till the end of revenue service for the day. However, if the commuter decides not to travel, the ticket can be cancelled and the amount will be refunded.

"BMRCL is the first Metro in the global transit space to introduce an end-to-end system on WhatsApp," an official release stated.

BBMP employees observe black day

Bengaluru: ondemning the move to transfer "unqualified" officials to the BBMP on deputation, civic body employees in eight zones, including the head-office, on Monday observed 'black day' by wearing black armbands at work. The protest was called by the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagar Palike Officer and the Employees' Welfare Association after Deputy Commissioner (South Zone) Lakshmi Devi was transferred and J Raja, Assistant Director of Social Welfare Department, deputed to her place. Association's president A Amritraj said the protest was called off after a meeting with the Chief Commissioner who passed an order to transfer Raja back. ENS

STRESS FREE

Soon, bag-free Saturday in govt schools

ENS @Bengaluru

AT least one day a month, students of government primary and secondary schools can soon leave their heavy bags at home and take part in fun-filled learning activities. The Department of State Education Research and Training (DSERT) has recommended schools to introduce a bag-free day on one Saturday a month under the Sambhrama Shanivara initiative.

According to the department, the initiative has been introduced as part of the Kalika Chetarike (learning recovery). "We suggest that all schools observe Sambhrama Shanivara on one Saturday of every month. Teachers can make use of activity books in ten subjects to encourage active learning in their students," it said.

DSERT has suggested that on the bag-free day, students make use of activity books and other material uploaded onto the DSERT website.

Under the initiative, DSERT has uploaded material related to several civic topics that teachers can download and print. The topics are related to safety and security, solid waste management, safe use of technology, road safety, gender equality, disabilities, healthy lifestyles, public services, nutrition and cleanliness, and awareness against drugs. The department has also uploaded a guidebook on how teachers can go about using the activity books and teach the children.

"The bag-free day can be on Saturdays when there are a fewer number of teachers. The initiative is a way to complement already existing learning recovery activities in learning centres and schools," the department said.

Daily Starscope

PETER VIDAL

01ST November : It's time to speak once again about the confusion between reality and illusion. Well, today, the questions are even more muddled. Mind you, it's a wonderfully passionate moment for romantics, artists, poets and people in love. It's even better for folk who couldn't give a fig for practical affairs!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
There is no turning back. This much must be clear to you. If, on the other hand, you want to plan for the immediate future, get all your spending plans in order. Put the emphasis on long-term investments, and try to get partners to opt for safety and security.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
The truth of your situation should now be becoming clear. You may, for example, be about to realise the importance of authority and tradition. At work, there is no way to evade the powers that be. Your most positive approach is to do what you have to for now, and try to turn the tables when the time is right.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
You may be about to amaze loved ones with a display of energy. I'm not advising you to be aggressive, but I would like to see you being more self-assertive in the very best sense. Stand up for what you know to be right. If you take the easy way out, then you won't respect yourself - and neither will other people.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
There will of course be times when you don't see eye to eye with loved ones, but you may head off potential confrontations by biting your tongue, turning the other cheek and allowing people to learn from their own mistakes. That might be the best approach for them as well as for you.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
There is no point in advising you to ignore what is happening at home. You may get away with burying your head in the sand now but, if you do, your problems will escalate over the summer. Therefore, you must deal with all those fundamental issues, now.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
The general planetary set-up indicates that you are still unclear whether to press ahead with your own individual goals or muck in and help out with tasks that are primarily others' concern. The answer is to do what you want today, but do what you have to tomorrow!

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You should be ready to stand up and be counted. You must also be ready to put your back into achieving special personal goals. Don't ever expect to attain these without putting in sufficient effort. The cosmos just doesn't operate like that.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
Astrology is infinitely complicated and today's stars are completely overshadowed by alignments that take place in two to four days' time, so don't be mesmerised by short-term developments. Do yourself a favour by talking about your plans and discussing your hopes.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
The moment may have come to spring a few surprises, but there's a supreme irony here. The way you can astound people is by being utterly conservative. Radical ideas are out of date, and traditional values are in - at least for today! Tomorrow may be different!

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Personally, and emotionally, this has been a trying time. Today's fascinating stars vary from being totally superficial to utterly profound. There is no middle way, so don't be complacent. You will have to decide which path you're taking and then follow it through.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Don't concern yourself with what happens today. It's the evening that counts, and if I were arranging your movements, I'd advise you to stay in bed until later. It may be impossible to fit in with such a awkward planetary schedule, but do your best!

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
You haven't always had a smooth ride recently. You may be in a tight corner, probably at home. But, to be perfectly frank, you could probably charm your way out of almost any situation the universe can throw at you. If in doubt, smile and win others over.

In a drunken brawl, a 23-year-old youth was stabbed to death by a friend over a trivial issue in Konanakunte police station limits on Sunday night. The victim is Safeer Ahmed, while the accused is Syed Wajeed, both welders. The police said the duo had gone to a bar on Sunday. After they left for home, a quarrel broke out between them, and Wajeed allegedly stabbed Ahmed with a dagger. The police have arrested Wajeed

Govt transfers IPS officers

BENGALURU: The State Government issued orders on Monday transferring several IPS officers.

Most of the officers have been transferred out of the ACB, which is now defunct following the Karnataka High Court order scrapping the government order on the formation of the ACB. Principal Secretary to Government (PCAS) Malini Krishnamoorthy has been transferred and posted as Additional Director General of Police (ADGP), Internal Security Division, which was lying vacant after the arrest of ADGP Amrit Paul in the PSI recruitment scam.

ADGP Seemanth Kumar Singh, who was heading the ACB, has been posted as ADGP of the Karnataka State Reserve Police (KSRP), relieving R Hithendra from the concurrent charge. IGP Ravi S, who was in the KSRP, is posted as IGP & Secretary to Government (PCAS). SP Ajay Hilori, who was awaiting posting, is posted as SP, Directorate of Civil Rights Enforcement (DCRE).

Yathish Chandra GH, who was with the ACB in Bengaluru, is transferred and posted as Deputy Commissioner of Police (Crime-2), Bengaluru city, while Kalaburagi ACB SP Amarnath Reddy Y is posted as SP, Intelligence, Kalaburagi. Ballari ACB SP Srihari Babu BL is transferred to Karnataka Lokayukta. Dr Shobha Rani VJ, SP, ACB, Bengaluru is posted as SP, Bangalore Metropolitan Task Force (BMTF).

Special Acts prevail over personal laws: HC

Grants bail in one case, says minor victim is pregnant and needs care of accused spouse

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court refused to accept that personal laws override the Protection of Child from Sexual Offence (Pocso) Act while granting bail in one case involving the accused marrying a minor girl and rejecting bail in another case of accused committing sexual assault on a minor girl.

Justice Rajendra Badamikar passed the order while granting bail to an accused from KR Puram police limits, as the victim, being pregnant, requires support from petitioner-husband.

The counsel of the accused, who was arrested under Pocso and Child Marriage Restrain Act, contended that the puberty is the consideration for marriage under Mohammedan law and since puberty age is 15, there is no commission of offence.

The court said such arguments cannot be accepted as Pocso Act is a Special Act that overrides personal law and the age for involving in sexual activities is 18 under Pocso.

The court said it is also evident that the victim is 17 and capable of understanding things. Though she asserted that the marriage was solemnised without her consent, it is evident prima facie that she is also a consenting party.

Considering the marriage, there is no impediment to release the petitioner with conditions, it said.

In another case, the court expressed similar views that Special Act overrides personal laws and rejected the bail of 19-year-old accused from Chikkamagaluru town who was arrested for allegedly kidnapping a 16-year-old minor girl and raped her in April 2022.

it is also evident that the victim is 17 and capable of understanding things. Though she asserted that the marriage was solemnised without her consent

NIMHANS to host Mental Health Santhe on Nov 3

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

IN a bid to dispel myths about mental health and foster better awareness, NIMHANS will be hosting a first-of-its-kind 'Mental Health Santhe' on November 3.

The event will feature dozens of mental health organisations and stakeholders, which will exhibiting their services. "Lack of mental health literacy and social stigma form major barriers in accessing appropriate treatment for mental disorders. In a developing country like India, mental health literacy appears to be an underrepresented domain and, as a consequence, the inhibitions surrounding the need to seek professional help to handle mental health problems poses a great challenge," NIMHANS stated. To combat this, the mental health institute is organising the event, which will act as a fair for citizens to get well-versed with mental health.

MAN BURNT ALIVE BY GANG LED BY WIFE'S PARAMOUR

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

A 28-year-old man was burnt alive by a gang, allegedly led by his friend, who allegedly had an illicit relationship with the victim's wife. The murder is said to have been committed at the behest of the victim's wife. The victim, M Kiran Gowda alias Daka, a resident of Maralavadi, is the son of a JDS leader in Ramanagara.

The accused tied the hands and legs of Kiran and poured diesel on him before setting him ablaze. The accused then dumped Kiran's half-burnt body in the forest area in Harohalli police station limits.

Kiran's father Dasappa alias Thammayyanna, 64, a former president of Maralavadi Gram Panchayat and JDS leader had filed a missing complaint in which he named B A Yashwath Gowda of Maralavadi as the main accused in the case. The incident came to light on Saturday when police interrogated Gowda. The body of the victim was recovered from the forest area and shifted to a hospital for the postmortem.

Kiran went missing on Friday night when he was returning from the chicken stall which he owned.

Kiran was murdered at an isolated place near the Annapurneshwari Ashram on the Therubeedhi Road on Friday night around 9.45 pm. The other accused are Chaitra (Kiran's wife), Karthik, Thayappa and Annayya, all from Hospet in Vijayanagara district. Kiran got married to Chaitra four years ago and the couple has a two-and-half-year-old son.

WILL SHOWCASE STATE AS INVESTMENT HUB: NIRANI

Minister says focus will be on Tier 2&3 cities to promote industries; Gautam Adani, host of biz tycoons to attend

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

THE state government is set to showcase Karnataka as the global startup hub as 37 per cent of the startup funds come from Bengaluru with Prime Minister Narendra Modi set to inaugurate the three-day Global Investors' Meet (GIM) 2022, virtually on Wednesday.

"Bengaluru houses 40 out of 105 unicorns and 3 of 4 decacorns in India," said Murugesh Nirani, Minister for Large and Medium Industries, during his visit to the Palace Grounds on Monday, adding, "Our aim is not only to get investments but to bring industry giants under one platform."

"Karnataka is the preferred destination for investments in the manufacturing and sustainability sectors. We have received huge response from investors globally," he said. The theme is 'Build for the World', reflecting Karnataka's role in the global supply chain.

Sub-themes of innovation, sustainability, equity and resilience will be the key topics to be addressed during the event, he said, adding that the valedictory ceremony will see more than 5,000 senior delegates participating.

"We want to focus beyond Bengaluru to promote industries in Tier 2 and 3 cities through our Beyond Bengaluru initiative," he said. The inaugural ceremony will be followed by sessions where around 80 speakers will participate in 50 sessions including panel discussions, fireside chats, and ted-style talks.

Networking events, business exhibitions and country sessions would run parallelly. The country sessions will each be hosted by the partner countries -- France, Germany, the Netherlands, South Korea, Japan and Australia -- which would be bringing in high-level ministerial and industrial delegations from their respective countries for the same.

GLOBAL INVESTORS' MEET

Business tycoon Gautam Adani's son Karan Adani, Kumar Mangalam Birla, Vikram Kirloskar, Starbucks cofounder Zev Siegl, Sajjan Jindal, Rajan Mittal, Prateek Agarwal, Rishad Premji are those who have confirmed their participation. Adani is also likely to announce an investment commitment. Union Finance Minister Nirmala Sitharaman, Commerce and Industry Minister Piyush Goyal, Ministers Pralhad Joshi, Smriti Irani are likely to take part.

Letters of Assurance to be given at GIM: Bommai

Bengaluru: Karnataka government will give Letters of Assurances to the investors whose projects has already been cleared, said Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Monday. "Since many have expressed their interest to invest, we will get an estimated Rs5 lakh crore investment for the state. The project clearance have been granted. The letters of assurance will be distributed during GIM 2022" he said. During the three-day event, there will be discussions on development and challenges in the fields of renewable energy, semiconductor, aerospace and defense sectors, and other sectors, where experts from India and abroad will take part, he said, and appealed to entrepreneurs and small-scale industries to register. ENS

Cabinet expansion soon, 10-11 new faces may come in

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

THE state cabinet is likely to be expanded and reshuffled soon, with the Assembly polls just six months away. It is said that a large number of ministers could be designated to party work, while new faces will replace them.

There have already been complaints that some districts are over-represented, while the others do not have any representation.

Sources said the cabinet will be expanded as soon as the green signal comes from the party high command. For the record, Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai has already sought time and central leaders are expected to meet him soon.

A source said 10-11 new faces could be inducted, while many non-performing ministers would be dropped.

But no one knows when the list will be approved by the high command. Bommai is holding a whole host of portfolios as the departments of deceased ministers too have gone to him. He has not been able to do justice to these portfolios as he is extremely busy.

A BJP MLC said, "When a ministry is under the chief minister, it means that it is not being supervised effectively and it is on 'auto pilot'. The chief minister cannot spare time for all meetings and due to his heavy workload, it is impossible for the ministry to be supervised effectively."

BJP national general secretary, state in-charge, Arun Singh was not available for comments as he is busy with other programmes of Prime Minister Narendra Modi.

A minister said the cabinet expansion is imminent, but when is the question.

When Bommai took over from Yediyurappa, he formed the cabinet, but it has 16 months and there is great expectation to bring in some new faces.

In the meantime, the list of aspirants has only grown longer. Also, Yediyurappa, after being elevated to the parliamentary board, will try to get his loyalists in, as will BL Santosh.

Startups to be in focus at Krishi Mela

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

KRISHI Mela, which is set to take place from November 3-6, will witness the dominance of startups.

While the mela, organised by the University of Agricultural Sciences, will feature several crop varieties, new equipment, farm animals and awards, which is included in the mela usually, this year will also be dedicated to 'startups in agriculture'.

To highlight the importance of startups, talks will be organised where leaders from the community of agricultural startups will participate to create awareness on the initiatives that have been undertaken in the agriculture sector.

There will also be three talks as part of the 'forum by farmers to farmers'.

The talks will focus on post-harvest technology, startups in agriculture and organic/natural farming, with speakers from agricultural startups across the state.

This will include RootsGoods, a startup from Shivamogga, which has created a platform to help farmers and customers negotiate prices for their crops as well as conduct quality assurance checks, and Beegle Agritech, a specialised farming intelligence startup that focuses on providing analytics through drone data collection.

In addition to the regular pavilions set up at the mela, this year will also feature a massive pavilion dedicated specifically to startups in the state.

Awards will also be handed out at the state level, district level and taluk level, including the Dr R Dwarkeenath Best Extension Worker Award, which is being awarded to Dr Rajegowda, head and senior scientist of Krishi Vignana Kendra in Kandli Hassan district.

In total, around 700 stalls will be set up at the mela, exhibiting numerous farming equipment, crop varieties and businesses.

Reddy hints he is not happy with BJP

KIRAN BALANNANAVAR @ Ballari

GOING by his remarks at an event on Sunday, former minister Gali Janardhana Reddy looks to be unhappy with BJP, the party that he belongs to. He did not make any direct references, but recalled his days of suffering and how he was left in the lurch.

Reddy, once a political force in undivided Ballari district, has been in political hibernation ever since he was arrested in illegal mining cases. But after coming out on bail a few months ago, he is making efforts to enter active politics in Ballari. Though he was earlier banned from entering Ballari, he is presently here with the permission of the court.

BJP leader Gali Janardhana Reddy inaugurates a local cricket tournament in Ballari on Sunday | EXPRESS

Inaugurating a cricket tournament in Ballari, he said that Congress, being an opposition party, has every right to criticise him, but he did not expect it from BJP as he played a major role in building the party and bringing it to power. "I am satisfied with my political career. Soon, I am going to decide my next step. I have to leave Ballari on November 6 as per the Supreme Court order. I will not go to Bengaluru, but stay close to Ballari to be in touch with the people," he added.

Commenting on his brother and Ballari City MLA Somashekhar Reddy's remarks against the Muslim community, he said Somashekhar has realised his mistake and already apologised for it. "In Ballari, Hindus and Muslims live like brothers. PFI and SDPI leaders were held recently, but none of them were from Ballari, which shows the respect Ballari Muslims show for the country," he added.

CM celebrates civic body poll victories

BENGALURU: With BJP winning six out of seven seats in Kollegal Municipality polls, district in-charge minister V Somanna and architect of the victory N Mahesh, an MLA, visited Kollegal to thank the voters for the morale-boosting just a few months ahead of the Assembly elections. Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai expressed his happiness and thanked Mahesh. He tweeted, "This result is an indicator that Lotus will bloom all over Karnataka in the upcoming elections in 2023." In Vijayapura City Corporation, of the 35 seats, BJP won 17 and Bommai thanked Vijayapura MLA Basanagouda Patil Yatnal. He tweeted, "By winning 17 out of 35 seats in Vijayapura, our party has achieved an unprecedented feat."

GM mustard: Farmers gear up for protest

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI
@ Bengaluru

WITH the Genetic Engineering Appraisal Committee clearing the environmental release of genetically modified herbivorous-tolerant mustard seeds on October 18, the state government has to take a decision on allowing it in the state. In 2019 when HD Kumaraswamy was CM, the agriculture secretary had ordered that no GM crop, except the BT cotton, will be allowed. Farmers and agriculture experts are now plan nig to oppose the entry of GM Ht mustard.

Admirers of Karnataka Rajya Raitha Sangha leader, late prof MD Nanjunadaswamy, led by Rajya Sabha member Dr L Hanumanthaiah, had submitted the proposal to Kumaraswamy following which the order was passed in August 2019. "We will continue to fight against environmental release of mustard," said KN Nagesh, a convener of the pressure group that is campaigning against GM crops. Noted agriculture scientist Dr Manjunath H from Gandhian School of Natural Farming condemned the decision of the government.

"It is said that GM Ht Mustard produces 23% higher yield than our selection varieties, which is a false study," he alleged, adding, "The patent is with Bayer Company." Agriculture Minister BC Patil said he will take a decision only after looking into the orders passed in 2019.

Cash gift to scribes: Bommai must order judicial probe, says Siddaramaiah

Mysuru: Opposition leader Siddaramaiah on Monday demanded a judicial probe into allegations that journalists were given cash in sweet boxes from the Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai's office for Deepavali. The former chief minister said that "cash to journalists was nothing but an attempt to bribe them to cover up the BJP government's corruption". "Chief Minister Basvaraj Bommai must order a judicial probe immediately to unearth the truth. Many journalists had returned the cash. He has already conceded that someone from his office has done it without his knowledge. How is this possible?" he said, adding that the CM should reveal how he got the money to give the journalists. Continuing his attack on the BJP government, Siddaramaiah said that an innocent contractor has already died by suicide and another has written a letter to the President to give him permission for euthanasia. "The police inspector (of KR Puram Police station) who paid a bribe for posting died of a heart attack as per Housing Minister MTB Nagaraj. What more evidence is needed to prove that this government is corrupt?" he said.

SC extends interim relief to Yediyurappa in corruption case

New Delhi: The Supreme Court on Monday extended the interim relief granted to former Chief Minister BS Yediyurappa as the court stayed the Lokayukta police probe into the allegations of corruption over a project for Ramalingam Construction Company Private Limited. The bench comprising Justices DY Chandrachud and Hima Kohli also issued notice against the high court's September 7 order of also restoring the private complaint filed by activist TJ Abraham in the graft case. While allowing Abraham's plea who had challenged lower court's order of dismissing his private complaint, Justice S Sunil Dutt Yadav of Karnataka High Court said that the rejection of sanction for prosecution would not come in the way of continuance of proceedings. A week after the high court's order, a special court on September 14 referred the private complaint to the Lokayukta police to probe into the allegations and submit a final report by November 2, 2022. - Shruti Kakkar

No new candidate, Shettar says he will contest from Hubballi-Dharwad again

Hubballi: Scotching rumours that he is unlikely to contest from Hubballi-Dharwad Central constituency, senior BJP leader Jagadish Shettar on Monday confirmed that he will contest the 2023 election, adding that there is no question of fielding other candidates. There were speculations that Shettar, who has been representing the constituency over the last 29 years winning six times in a row since 1994, might be appointed governor. His son Sankalp's name was doing the rounds as a candidate with advertisements in some publications, reinforcing suspicion. "I will contest from HD Central seat in the next election, and looking for other candidates will not arise. There were similar rumours in the previous election as well," he told media persons, adding that as polls approach, these rumours are being spread once again. Meanwhile, Shettar advised opposition leader Siddaramaiah to abstain from making baseless allegations of corruption and come up with evidence as the case is already being looked into by the Lokayukta. If the Congress leader has any evidence, he should submit it to the agency. Shettar refused to comment on the alleged cash in sweet boxes to journalists from the chief minister's office. Regarding Hubballi-Dharwad Mayor Iresh Anchatgeri's letter over the poor financial condition of the Hubballi-Dharwad Municipal Corporation, Shettar said he has already spoken to the chief minister, and assured that the corporation will be getting additional grants soon. ENS

DKS : Govt closing Indira Canteens

ENS @ Bengaluru

OPPOSITION Congress on Monday accused the State Government of closing Indira Canteens, the subsidised food canteens started during the Congress government headed by Siddaramaiah. KPCC president DK Shivakumar said the government is closing 40 canteens and asked his party workers to stage protests wherever they are being closed. He was addressing Congress workers after paying tributes to former prime minister Indira Gandhi on her death anniversary.

Shivakumar said the government should not close the canteens as autorickshaw drivers, labourers and the poor get food for Rs 10. The BJP government can start its programmes and not stop any pro-people programmes started when the Congress was in power, he said. "Indira Canteens must be allowed to operate. We will get a report from all the district presidents and workout details to protest against their closure," he added.

He dared the CM to form a panel to probe into all cases even those, including those that were reported when Congress was in power. Shivakumar hit out at the government for its failure to fill potholes on Bengaluru roads.

Wisconsin to celebrate Rajyotsava Day

G SUBHASH CHANDRA @ Chitradurga

CONSIDERING the importance of Kannada language, the governor of Wisconsin in the United States, Tony Evers, has passed a proclamation declaring Nov 1, 2022 as the Kannada Language and Rajyotsava Day throughout Wisconsin and has asked all residents to celebrate it.In his letter dated October 21, 2022, he states that Kannada is one of the oldest languages spoken by millions of people across Karnataka, India and around the world.

Evers acknowledged the contribution of Wisconsin's Kannada community and also their support in maintaining the heritage of India and enriching the rich cultural diversity of the US.

He recognised the services of Milana Kannada Koota of Milwaukee, dedicated to promoting awareness on Kannada culture and language in Wisconsin, including educating future generations of Kannadigas in their language through weekend schools, cultural events and workshops.

In replying to a TNIE request sent to the governor's office on the authenticity of the proclamation, Research and Press Specialist, Office of Governor Tony Evers, Chet Agni said, "The document you attached is indeed an authentic proclamation signed by Tony Evers, governor of the state of Wisconsin declaring November 1 Kannada Language and Rajyotsava Day throughout the state."

No dedicated cremation grounds, complain Jains, panel raises it with govt

BANSY KALAPPA @ Bengaluru

CHANDRAGUPTA Maurya, founder of the Mauryan empire – who embraced Jainism, travelled to Karnataka from the present day Bihar and died in Chandragiri Hills in Shravanabelagola. But 2,300 years later, the Jain community is struggling to get exclusive cremation grounds. The community members have now petitioned the state government, saying they have such facilities in other parts of the country.

"We don't have dedicated cremation grounds in Bengaluru and other places in the state. We need them," said V Prasannaiah, president of the Karnataka Jain Association.

Experts and historians said Chandragupta Maurya, after renouncing Hinduism and accepting Jainism, walked all the way from Pataliputra in Bihar to Karnataka, led by his spiritual guide Bhadrabahu, who was a Jain monk. The king died in Shravanabelagola. The Chandragiri Hill is named after him.

Praveen Pandit, a Jain priest of a Jain Mandir at Wilson Garden, said, "The practices and traditions laid down by Acharya Shantisagar and written in texts mentions that Jains need cremation grounds.

State Minority Commission chairman Abdul Azeem said, "The commission has raised the issue with the government. I received the request from the Jain community for a cremation ground in Mandya among other places."

Members of the Dharmasthala Manjunatheshwara Dharmothana Trust pointed out that the community has donated crematoriums to several communities, and also helped in beautification of many cremation grounds by planting trees.

Jains who are less than 0.4 per cent of the population enjoy the highest per capita income. Jain International Trade Organization, past secretary, Sanjay Dhariwal said, "The community has always been a net contributor. However, even a few simple demands of giving a designated cremation ground are ignored by the government."

No tie-up with TRS: Rahul

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

Congress leader Rahul Gandhi interacts with Telangana road transport corporation drivers and conductors at Shadnagar on Monday | EXPRESS

THERE is no question of Congress having any alliance with TRS in the future, Wayanad Member of Parliament Rahul Gandhi said, quashing speculation that there might be an electoral understanding in the days to come.

He said Congress is very clear with regard to the alliances and that it was the TRS which was creating the confusion. "If Nitish Kumar wants to have talks with TSR, that is his concern. We have no problem with that. But we cannot have any understanding with a party which is identified with corruption, snatching lands from Dalits and tribals, and destroying the education system. What we do is diametrically opposite to what the TRS does," Rahul told the media at Kothur near Hyderabad on Monday during the sixth day of his Bharat Jodo Yatra in Telangana.

'KCR can float intl party'

Rahul said TRS supremo and Telangana Chief Minister K Chandrasekhar Rao can float an international party if he so wishes and fight elections even in the US or China. "If the chief minister of Telangana believes that he is running a national party then perfectly okay, no problem. Let him believe in it. If he believes he is running a global party that's also acceptable. These all are the things that he can imagine. He is welcome to think that he is running an international party, one that is fighting international elections in the US and China and other countries," he said.

He said that a lot of damage has been done to the institutional framework of our country. "There has been a systematic attack on different institutions - judiciary, bureaucracy, Media — not just at the national level but at local level. When the Congress comes back to power, we are going to make sure that these institutions are once again freed from the influence of the RSS," Rahul said.

Student gets 5 yrs in jail for Pulwama FB post

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

A 20-year-old engineering student who put up a derogatory post on the February 14, 2019 Pulwama terror attack in Jammu and Kashmir has been convicted to five years of simple imprisonment, along with a fine of Rs 10,000, by the special court for NIA cases on Monday.

The student is Faiz Rashid, a resident of HRBR Layout. Rashid had reportedly created a Facebook account just to post the provocative posts on the terror attack. The CCB arrested Rashid from a bakery near his house. They had filed a complaint against him in the Banaswadi police station.

Rashid is pursuing third semester in the Electronics and Communication branch at a reputed engineering college in the city. Since his arrest on February 17, 2019, Rashid is in judicial custody and has been lodged at the Parappana Agrahara central prisons.

"After his posts on Facebook, several users, after criticising the posts, had tagged the Bengaluru City Police. Fearing arrest, he had deleted his Facebook account. His mobile phone which was recovered after his arrest was sent to the FSL for analysis. The same report was submitted along with the chargesheet," said an officer.

Despite 'steps', one more leopard run over

ENS @ Bengaluru

THE construction of underpasses and overpasses on the Bengaluru-Mysuru expressway to protect animals from coming under the wheels of speeding vehicles seem to be going in vain as yet another leopard was killed by a over-speeding vehicle on the highway. The carcass of the eight-year-old male leopard was found on the highway stretch at Kempanahalli which connects Ramanagara.

According to forest department officials, the animal was found dead by passersby at 6 am. However, autopsy report revealed that it died around 3 am by coming under a speeding four-wheeler. According to forest department officials, this is the third such incident on this stretch in the last six months and the first after the newly-constructed highway was thrown open for public.

The forest department has now sought permission from the state government and the highway authority to put signages and boards warning people about the movement of animals. The earlier two incidents happened at Myaganahalli and near Ramanagara vulture sanctuary.

Officials said the aim of the highway is to cut the travel time for commuters to two hours and to address the animal issue, signages and boards have been put up. Mocking this, a forest department official said, "We did not know animals could read and write. If that is the case then this leopard was not well-educated. There are eight reserve forests around the expressway, apart from Ramanagara vulture sanctuary and a portion of Cauvery Wildlife Sanctuary. Now the road has been constructed and barricaded in patches. So, all we can hope is that animals adjust in course of time, but until then how many lives will be lost, one will only have to count."

Conservationists and forest officials point out that population of leopards has increased in the reserve forests and buffer zones. The department is counting at least three cattle killed by leopards in Ramanagara, Kanakapura, Magadi and other surrounding areas. Signages cautioning wildlife presence are put on Nice Road connecting to Bannerghatta Road and Kanakapura and NH-207 on Kanakapura Road.

'Destinations changed based on feedback'

GOLDEN CHARIOT

EVEN as the ownership of the train rests with the Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation, its operations, marketing and management is being done by IRCTC.

Officials from IRCTC told The New Indian Express that changes in destinations have been made based on the feedback obtained from travel agents, tourists, footfall at destinations, and requirements of tourists and travel partners. Bandipur Safari has also been added instead of Kabini, and Goa being a star attraction for all tourists, is very much on the list. "We had undertaken two trips in March 2021, where Chikkamagaluru was included and tourists gave a positive feedback to the new itinerary," an official from IRCTC said.

So far, 30 bookings have been confirmed for the inaugural trip, which now has a mix of 13 double-bed cabins, 30 twin-bed cabins and one cabin for the specially-abled.

The last operation by Karnataka State Tourism Development Corporation was in 2017-18. It was then handed over to the IRCTC in January 2021 which undertook two trips in March 2021, before sending it for overhaul. The train now stands at Chikkaballapur station.

'A DAY TO REMEMBER'

When Sachin stopped for chai

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Belagavi

MONDAY was a day to remember for Vaiju Nitturkar, owner of a roadside tea stall in Belagavi. He had a celebrity guest. Noted cricketer Sachin Tendulkar arrived at his stall for a cup of tea.

The 'God of Cricket' was travelling from Mumbai to Goa and briefly stopped to have a cup of tea at the canteen of Nitturkar located on outskirts of Belagavi at Macche. Tendulkar along with his wife, son, daughter was in one car and his four bodyguards were in another car. When Tendulkar entered the canteen, the owner could not believe his eyes and tried to confirm it by asking his bodyguards. Speaking to TNIE, Nitturkar recalled that both the cars stopped in front of his canteen and the bodyguards approached him. They took tea cups from the canteen and served them to Tendulkar and his family who were in the car itself. "Till that time, I was unaware that it was Tendulkar and his family in that car. Only after Tendulkar himself stepped out of the car and met me to appreciate the taste of the tea, I realised it was him," he said.

The bill was ₹175 and he paid a ₹200 note to Nitturkar. While returning ₹25, Nitturkar asked for Tendulkar's autograph on the same ₹200 rupee note. Tendulkar smiled and gave his autograph. Later Nitturkar requested the cricketer for a selfie. Tendulkar readily agreed and also had a brief chat with him. Tendulkar also took selfies and videos on his cell phone along with Nitturkar.

"The unexpected surprise visit of Tendulkar will always be green in my memory," said the happy canteen owner.

ODISHA GROWTH HOPES RIDE ON THE WINGS OF NEW AIRPORT

Early last month, when the Ministry of Civil Aviation granted a license to Jeypore airport for commercial operation of flights under the Narendra Modi government's flagship Regional Connectivity Scheme - UDAN, it became the first state-owned airport of Odisha. On Monday, Chief Minister Naveen Patnaik flagged off the first flight, adding a new accelerator to regional growth. For a historically backward region, this presents a reason for cheer. Jeypore, one of the biggest towns in southern Odisha, is the gateway to the region, and an airport would help the endeavours of the state and the Centre to address the regional imbalance. Part of the erstwhile Kalahandi-Balangir-Koraput landscape, which grabbed headlines through the 1980s and 1990s for acute socio-economic impoverishment, Jeypore turns a new leaf with air connectivity.

The primary goal behind the scheme is not just to provide improved air linkage for tourism purposes; it aims to act as a catalyst for economic development by shortening distances and linking the hinterland with development hubs. The good news is Odisha will add another airport at Rourkela under the scheme. The state government's relentless pursuit of promoting hockey resulted in the hosting of the back-to-back Men's Hockey World Cup, which necessitated the aviation infrastructure.

There is more to come, though. Two airports at Utkela (Kalahandi) and Rangeilunda (Ganjam), are currently underway. As part of its endeavour, the government is planning an airstrip at Malkangiri, where left-wing extremism ruled the roost until recently. In 2018, the Jharsuguda airport was set up under the same scheme. Besides, under the latest proposals, airstrips at four more places are planned to link wildlife and tourist destinations. While the Airport Authority of India operates airports like Jharsuguda, the Jeypore and Utkela airports would see the state picking up critical stakes in land and security, apart from future expansion. The Civil Aviation Ministry recently told parliament that at least 60 routes have been awarded to Odisha, of which 18 are operational. Most of these airports are being planned in regions rich in natural resources but have been trying to break the shackles of underdevelopment. Apart from addressing the regional imbalance, the operationalisation of Jeypore airport marks a new chapter for the aspirational Odisha which has worked cooperative federalism truly well.

HOSTING CAN WAIT, FOCUS ON SPORTS AND INFRA

The Olympics has always been the pinnacle of sporting extravaganza, where thousands of athletes worldwide showcase their extraordinary talents. At another level, it is also a reflection of a country's economic, social and sporting prowess. Hosting it, too, has, besides other things, an aura of immense glamour. Of late, there has been criticism from both bidding and hosting nations over the rising costs of the Games that threaten to cripple the economy. It happened in Greece after the 2004 Athens Olympics; even Brazil struggled with it before and after the Rio Games in 2016. Japan is expecting to claw back after the Tokyo Covid-affected Olympics, which at an estimated cost of $13 billion was one of the most expensive too. India wants to host it in 2036. After the successful National Games in Gujarat, there are enough indications—from the Gujarat government and the IOA—that India is serious about bringing the Olympics home. But are we ready?

In recent times, there were occasions when host cities dropped out of the bidding because it attracted public wrath. Brisbane was the only city that remained in the bidding process for the 2032 Olympics. According to reports, it had pledged that all spending would be covered through private funding. Back home, though the 2010 Commonwealth Games was not even close to the Olympics in scale and honour, it spent at least ten times more than its original cost.

For a country like India, where a few sports dominate the psyche of the masses, hosting a multi-discipline event comprising more than 28 sports will always be daunting. We ought to change our mindset, imbibe a robust sporting culture and endeavour to climb to the top of the Olympic Games medals tally before even considering bidding. Though 2036 is a long way off, for athletes to succeed, a long-term development programme is a must. Investing in the grassroots would help yield results, translating into medals. We have yet to reach the double-figure mark in the medals tally. Even in disciplines we are good at, we are not in double figures. Modern-day disciplines like climbing, surfing, e-sports, and skateboarding are in a nascent stage. We must concentrate on developing sports and infrastructure throughout the country rather than hosting mega-events. Else, all infrastructure built for Olympics would later stand as a symbol of wasted resources, unutilised and abandoned.

QUICK TAKE

LAND GRAB IN RELIGION'S NAME

The Kerala High Court seeks action against religious organisations encroaching upon government land. The court observed that the encroachments make the religious bodies rich enough to dominate the government's will. Such land grabs are rampant in India. Tamil Nadu once reported to a court about the construction of over 3000 places of worship on encroached government land, including public roads and pavements in the state. Rules banning such construction exist but are not enforced because of religion's sway over politics. National legislation is called for to ensure nobody encroaches land on behalf of a deity, who is a legal person.

The spike in US interest rates has caused a domino effect. Most emerging economies, including India, have been witnessing withdrawal of foreign investment

US INFLATION SOARS, WORLD ECONOMY FEELS THE HEAT

BISWAJIT DHAR

SOUMYADIP SINHA

In what is an unprecedented occurrence, the global economy is tottering towards the precipice, the second instance over the past two years. Even before most developing countries had fully recovered from the Covid-shock, a combination of economic and political occurrences undermined their fledgling recovery.

Russia's invasion of Ukraine in February caused an upheaval in the energy market with the fuel price index of the International Monetary Fund (IMF) increasing by 28% within a month. These price shocks came on the back of a 53% increase in energy price index since mid-2021, fuelled by expectations of a sustained global economic recovery. These expectations were hardly surprising in view of the strong rebound in economic growth in most economies, resulting in an expansion of world output by 6% in 2021. This growth was buoyed by a 5.7% expansion of the US economy, the highest since 1984.

Moreover, the IMF's assessment at the beginning of the year was that the global economy would grow by 4% or more during 2022–23. If realised, this would have been the first time since 2004–07 that growth of this magnitude was realised for three consecutive years.

But this seemingly happy augury soon ran into the risk of inflationary pressures that threatened to undermine the economic fundamentals. In the US, the consumer price index rapidly increased to scale levels that the country had not witnessed for the past four decades.

In March 2022, the Chairman of the US Federal Reserve, Jerome Powell, raised its benchmark rate from 0.25% to 0.5%, the first time it had done so since 2018, as US inflation spiralled to 8.5%. With inflation remaining stubbornly high, Powell announced four additional hikes in the interest rate, pegging it at 3.25% in September 2022. Markets expect US interest rates to be nearly 4.5% by the end of the year. Thus, within a year of it registering the highest economic growth in four decades, Powell had its sights set on drastically slowing down the US economy in an attempt to arrest inflation. Powell's actions are reminiscent of the "Volcker moment", the series of interest rate hikes that the then Chairman of the Federal Reserve Paul Volcker had undertaken to douse the double-digit inflation recorded in 1979–80. As a consequence, the US economy slipped into a recession. In the aftermath of the "Volcker moment" of 2022, the US economy declined by 1.6% and 0.6% in the first two quarters of the year, which is expected to dampen world output.

The spike in US interest rates has caused a domino effect around the world. Most emerging economies, including India, have been witnessing withdrawal of foreign investment as investors have opted for the "safest haven", which is now more attractive due to the higher interest rates. For instance, foreign portfolio investors have pulled out nearly $24 billion from India during this calendar year (up to October 20), whereas in the two previous years, they had invested $21 billion. A strong dollar has also impacted India's current account. Since a large share of India's imports is in the form of essentials like energy resources and intermediate products processed by several critical sectors like pharmaceuticals, a strong dollar could push the import bill towards unsustainable levels.

Further, when the US dollar is pushing higher, so would India's external debt since over 53% of India's external debt was denominated in the greenback as of March 2022. Finally, as India is affected by inflationary pressures, caused, among other things, by higher prices of imported commodities, the RBI is subjecting the economy to its own "Volcker moment", which could adversely affect the country's growth prospects.

What is clear from the above is the economic uncertainties being experienced the world over have been triggered by the growth-inflation spiral that the US has experienced over the past two years. But what caused this growth-inflation spiral, and more importantly, can it be prevented?

The exceptional rate of expansion of the US economy was the result of the massive economic stimulus totalling almost $5 trillion that the Trump and the Biden administrations had provided. The former administration obtained authorisation from the Congress to provide four stimulus packages in 2020, including $2.3 trillion through the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act and $900 billion through the Consolidated Appropriations Act.

The latter administration piloted the American Rescue Plan Act (ARPA) in 2021. The CARES Act and CAA injected $847 billion through direct payments to individuals and unemployment benefits. On the other hand, ARPA authorised issuance of economic impact payments (EIPs), one-time payments of $1,400 to eligible individual beneficiaries as well as unemployment benefits totalling $606 billion.

Thus, the two stimulus packages put over $1.4 trillion in the hands of the individuals for reviving consumer spending, which could, in turn, boost the economy. These packages had their desired effects as recovery of the US economy was the quickest among the major economies.

However, it was soon clear that the stimuli had excessively propped up consumer demand at a juncture when supplies were running low as lockdowns had adversely impacted production networks. China's zero-Covid policy made the situation worse. It seems obvious that Washington had acted in an overzealous manner to revive the American economy, and ended up overheating it. But it is the global community that has to bear the adverse consequences of its policies.

The far-reaching implications of US' stimulus policies make it imperative for collective thinking on an agreed set of guidelines on the use of interventions by the governments of advanced economies in times of economic crisis, since their actions can threaten the global economy as is being experienced now. The irony is that while the IMF has been closely monitoring developing countries to ensure that their governments do not run up huge fiscal deficits through excessive spending, similar disciplines are unheard of for the advanced countries.

Therefore, feasibility of framing a consistent set of disciplines on government spending needs to be explored by the G-20 at the earliest; India, as the next G-20 president, must provide the leadership for so doing.

HEADWINDS FOR BJP IN HEARTLAND

ARUN SINHA

Senior journalist and author of The Battle for Bihar

After walking out of the NDA, Nitish Kumar has been trying to build a single opposition front for the battle for Delhi in 2024. As of now, the prospects for it do not look very bright. Some parties want the Congress to be excluded. Others would include it but not give it the leadership. That could mean a multiplicity of fronts. And that, Nitish has said, is a sure recipe for opposition defeat.

However, even if the opposition fails to forge one national front, regional alliances could eat into BJP numbers in Bihar and UP, which together send 120 MPs to Lok Sabha—seen from the point of view that the party that wins Bihar and UP gets to rule Delhi, that holds crucial significance.

With Mahagathbandhan's resurrection, the BJP is isolated in the caste matrix in Bihar. In the 1990s, they allied with Nitish Kumar and clung to him until forced by circumstances to select Narendra Modi as their prime ministerial candidate; they had to part with him in 2013. When he quit the Mahagathbandhan in 2017, the BJP welcomed him back with tears of joy.

For 22 years, their alliance milked the caste cow bountifully: The BJP drove upper-caste votes to Nitish, and he swept non-Yadav backward caste votes (Kurmis, Kushwahas, Mallahs and others) to them. The BJP reaped Paswan (the leading Dalit caste) votes with the help of the Lok Janshakti Party (LJP) for Nitish, and he harvested non-Paswan Dalit (Mahadalit) votes for them.

Today, the BJP does not know how to get on its own the votes Nitish used to pour into its bags. It never cultivated Yadav votes. Lalu's 'Yadav raj' invited wrath and contempt from the upper castes as they saw the Yadavs enjoying the powers they had enjoyed for ages. Unsure of protection from an emaciating Congress, the upper castes shifted their allegiance to the BJP. Voicing their wrath and contempt, the BJP ceaselessly demonised Lalu's raj as 'jungle raj'. They ended up making the Yadavs extremely hostile towards them. But they did not care as long as they had Nitish as the magnet to charm the non-Yadav OBCs, EBCs and Mahadalits to keep the 'Yadav raj' from returning, as the upper castes wanted.

The BJP's predicament today is that it has neither the Yadavs nor the non-Yadavs among the OBCs. It does not have the Mahadalits. It is not even sure of the Paswan vote, because the LJP is split, and it has allied with an LJP faction whose ability to attract Paswan votes is doubtful. The BJP is back to square one: it is re-confined mainly to the upper castes and the banias.

A hundred years ago in the state, the backward castes had risen against the upper castes and formed an organisation called Triveni Sangh to combat their tyranny. The Sangh was able to raise the social consciousness of the backward castes, but it failed to convert it into political consciousness. It could win no seats in the legislature.

The Mahagathbandhan could be seen as a culmination of the backward castes' 100-year-old war to remove the upper castes from the control room of the state's political ship. It is the Triveni Sangh in a new avatar, politically robust, unlike the old avatar.

PTI

> Today, the BJP does not know how to get on its own the votes Nitish used to pour into its bags. It never cultivated Yadav votes. Lalu's 'Yadav raj' invited wrath and contempt from the upper castes as they saw the Yadavs enjoying the powers they had enjoyed for ages

The BJP is worried because this avatar could wreak havoc on it. In the Bihar Assembly elections of 2015, it captured nearly three-fourths of the seats. In 2014, the combined vote of the Mahagathbandhan parties was much more than the BJP's in 34 of the 40 constituencies. That was when Modi's popularity was at its peak. After two terms, he will face some voter fatigue. Therefore, the BJP will have to fight very hard in Bihar to gain even a few seats.

The party may fare better in UP. With no magnet like Nitish there, it has worked to build a non-Yadav backward caste constituency on its own. It has aggressively sold the Modi image with an OBC tattoo on his forehead. It has allied with small caste-based parties (e.g., Apna Dal-S, Nishad Party). It has been distributing more political offices—in ministries, assemblies, panchayats and the party organisation—among backward castes than other parties. Every backward caste has a hero who, according to their legends, valiantly fought Muslim or British invaders. The BJP has been building their statues and memorials to pander to their collective pride.

Where does the opposition stand against the BJP in UP? Let us look at the JD(U). The party's expansion efforts in UP have been shy, shallow, shilly-shallying and sterile. Its three candidates in the Lok Sabha elections in 2019 and 27 in the Assembly elections in 2022 were pitiable losers.

However, this can change if there is a replication of the Triveni Sangh with a grand alliance of the Samajwadi Party, the JD(U), the Apna Dal-K and other parties representing backward castes. Notwithstanding its social engineering, the BJP remains predominantly an upper-caste party in UP, as in Bihar. Nitish has already met SP leader Akhilesh Yadav and Apna Dal-K leader Krishna Patel, and both have expressed willingness for an alliance. Akhilesh is eager to get Kurmi votes. They are the second largest OBC caste after the Yadavs and have a significant presence in several constituencies. Today, more Kurmis vote for the BJP than for the SP. Among 41 Kurmi MLAs, 27 are from the BJP and only 13 are from the SP.

Capitalising on the iconic image of Nitish—the tallest Kurmi leader after Sardar Patel—a regional opposition alliance can draw Kurmi votes away from the BJP. Nitish can also bring the votes of Kushwahas and the EBCs with his goodwill for introducing many schemes for their welfare. In wooing the Kushwahas, Upendra Kushwaha, whose caste-based party Rashtriya Lok Samata Party merged with the JD(U), can play Laxman's role for him.

Of course, if the opposition unites as a single national front and elects Nitish as its leader, there can be a tempestuous swing in the vote for the front in Bihar as people would see him as an icon of their collective pride. There could also be a surge in support from the backward castes in UP who might see him as "one of our own".

Do not impose Hindi

In his column Imposing language an assault on India's diversity (Oct 31), Kapil Sibal has analysed in detail and pointed out the bad effects of replacing English with Hindi in institutions of higher education. In the interest of unity, the Centre should refrain from making such unilateral decisions.

Divine parables

Apropos of As they say, 'Nothing propinks like propinquity' (Oct 31). Renuka Narayanan has beautifully brought out deep philosophical truths through the parables of Sri Ramakrishna, a storyteller par excellence. Even a moment's association with the holy one is enough to transform and infuse divinity in one's life, just as Jogen experiences when playing the role of Shiva.

Gujarat tragedy

Apropos of At least 60 killed in Guj bridge collapse (Oct 31). I was heartbroken after reading this. Accepting these tragedies is extremely difficult, but there is no other option. The government should step in and make all possible efforts to protect people. All of India's old bridges must be inspected, and safe travel must be ensured. My heartfelt condolences to the bereaved family members.

Bridge collapse

Apropos of At least 60 killed in Guj bridge collapse (Oct 31). This is very sad news as many children died as well. To prevent similar events in the future, a thorough inquiry into this frightening incident is necessary.

Kejri must clean house

Apropos of Not easy for AAP to wriggle out of Gujarat hawala muck (Oct 31). Kejriwal rose to power because he promised to weed out corruption. But in recent times, these tall promises have been mired, with several AAP politicians being charged with corruption or faced with other allegations. Before Kejriwal dreams of going national, he needs to clean up his own house.

Good attitude in sports

Apropos of India on the wrong Perth (Oct 31). No player ever intentionally performs poorly. All the players try to give their best for the team. But wins and losses are a part and parcel of the game. Indian cricketers congratulated South Africa despite losing the match. This teaches us that we should learn from our failures and work hard for the next test in life.

'AAP out of fight, no Modi factor in Himachal'

Corruption, price rise and unemployment key campaign issues for Congress, says state Cong chief Pratibha Singh

THE Congress in election-bound Himachal Pradesh believes it has advantages more than what the traditional logic holds: the ruling BJP and Congress have taken turns to rule the state. In an interview to Harpreet Bajwa, state Congress chief Pratibha Singh dismisses the AAP challenge or the 'Modi factor' in the November 12 Assembly polls, claiming the party will win around 50 seats in the 68-member House.

Excerpts:

What is the Congress' key agenda in these elections?
Our main agenda has been development that our previous governments have followed. We are committed to fulfilling the 10 promises that we have made to the people. The salient points of these promises are: Assistance of Rs 1,500 per month to women, cheaper educational loans and the restoration of the old pension scheme for government employees. Besides, we have raised our pitch against price rise and the growing unemployment.

What are the issues that your party is raising against the BJP?
Corruption in government departments is the key issue. We have forcefully taken up the recruitment scam involving the state police and other government wings under the BJP watch. Equally significant is the Agniveer scheme. Hundreds of youths from our state join the armed forces. The scheme has denied many of them the chance to get these jobs. The legacy of Virbhadra Singh is no doubt a major factor, as all know his contribution to Himachal's development.

The old pension scheme revival involves an annual outgo of around Rs 700 crore. Can the state afford it?
We will generate funds and see how we can manage it.

Is the absence of Virbhadra Singh impacting Congress campaign?
People have very fond memories of him. We are trying to follow in his footsteps. Strengthening the party and making it a winner in the polls would be our biggest tribute to him.

But there is a lot of infighting within the Congress...
That's not true. We stand united.

Will the Modi factor influence the poll outcome?
Not at all. Modi had promised he would bring inflation down, but he has been silent on price rise. He has not promised jobs and he has not announced a financial package for the state despite knowing that the state is in a debt of ₹77,000 crore. He should have announced relief for Himachal, but all that he has done is visit the state frequently.

AAP is making a serious attempt to gain a foothold in the state. How far will it make an impact?
AAP will not make any impact; Punjab was different. I met an APP leader in Kaza (in Sipiti) who joined our party and told us that he was very disappointed with Arvind Kejriwal. In Himachal, we have a straight fight between Congress and BJP.

The apple is the backbone of Himachal economy, but growers complain there is no MSP?
The BJP has ignored apple farmers, keeping them under the GST on every count, be it fertilizers, pesticides, cartons and trays.

> Modi had promised he would bring inflation down, but he has been silent on price rise. He has not promised jobs and he has not announced a financial package for the state despite knowing that the state is in a debt of ₹77,000 crore
> Pratibha Singh, Himachal Cong chief

How many seats do you expect to win in these polls?
We would get between 45 and 50 seats.

Are you the chief ministerial face of the party?
That is for the party high command to decide. I am the party president and an MP. I am working for the party to bring it back to power in the state.

No senior party leader has addressed rallies in the state, except Priyanka Gandhi...
We will request Sonia Gandhi and Rahul to come for campaigning. Our party chief Mallikarjun Kharge, former Haryana CM Bhupinder Singh Hooda, and Rajasthan CM Ashok Gehlot and Sachin Pilot will be joining our campaign.

Cheetahs will be moved to a new enclosure, larger than current quarantine bomas

'Kuno cheetahs to be shifted to larger enclosures in Nov'

CHANDAN NANDY @ New Delhi

THE eight cheetahs will be moved to a new enclosure, larger than their current extended quarantine bomas at the Kuno National Park (KNP), any day after November 7, a senior member of the Cheetah Task Force (CTF) told this newspaper on Monday.

"This decision was taken at the CTF's meeting held at KNP on October 27. The panel members took stock of the situation and the prevailing conditions in the new enclosures," Madhya Pradesh Principal Chief Conservator of Forests and Chief Wildlife Warden J C Chauhan said.

While an "entire timeline" for moving the cheetahs to nine separate enclosures within a "predator proof" 6-sq-km fenced zone within KNP was discussed at the CTF meeting, which the Namibian and South African experts attended as "special invitees", a detailed report on the availability of prey base and water availability was also considered.

The "soft release" of the felines, which was earlier scheduled for October 17, was delayed as the Namibian and South African cheetah experts had advised several health tests which are in the process of being completed.

Chauhan said that the CTF meeting threw up a number of "new suggestions", including additional power lines that would help keep the "internal fencing" of the new enclosures electrified.

The cheetahs will remain in the KNP's new, larger zone for at least three to four months before they are allowed to move to the "free ranging" area.

Even as the cheetahs continue to be fed dressed buffalo meat, the experts do expect this to adversely affect their hunting abilities.

In their new enclosure, the cheetahs will be able to hunt on their own as this zone, according to Chauhan, has "sufficient prey base".

The animals do not face any immediate threat from other predators such as leopards, 25 of which were removed from the 6-sq-km enclosure after being radio-collared by forest officials before the cheetahs were released into quarantine on September 17.

> This decision was taken at the CTF's meeting held at KNP on October 27. The panel members took stock of the situation and the prevailing conditions in the new enclosures
> J C Chauhan, MP Principal Chief Conservator of Forests and Chief Wildlife Warden

According to WII's Action Plan for Introduction of the Cheetah, the three radio-collared males would be released first from the "holding enclosure".

This will be followed by the release of the five females. The males and females would be kept in "separate but adjoining compartments so that they are able to know each other" before their final release into KNP's wilds spread over 742 sq km.

The source said that holding back the cheetahs in their quarantine bomas before their "soft release" was based on the advice of experts from the Namibian Cheetah Conservation Fund (CCF) who had accompanied the animals on their transcontinental flight to India. CCF experts are also monitoring "every aspect" of the cheetahs.

CHANDRASHEKHAR, currently lodged at Delhi's Mandoli jail, was arrested for allegedly extorting money from high-profile people, including former Fortis Healthcare promoter Shivinder Mohan Singh's wife Aditi. He was shifted from Tihar jail to Mandoli in August after he made repeated requests for a transfer to another jail. He claimed he had received death threats from within Tihar jail.

This month, he again approached the Supreme Court with a request to shift him from Mandoli. However, the court declined to entertain his plea.

On October 19, days after the letter was posted, the L-G granted approval to the economic offences wing of Delhi Police to investigate 82 officials of the prisons department for their alleged involvement in the organised crime syndicate run by Chandrashekhar from inside jail. In the letter, Chandrashekhar claimed he had disclosed the payments made to Jain, the AAP and also D-G, Prisons, to a CBI probe team last month. There was no immediate response from the L-G's office.

SC to examine right of prisoners to cast vote

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court on Monday decided to examine a petition challenging a provision in the election law that imposes a blanket ban on under trials, persons confined in civil prisons and convicts serving their sentence in jails from casting their votes.

The right to vote is a constitutional right under Article 326 of the Constitution.

The Supreme Court bench of CJI UU Lalit, Justices SR Bhat and Bela Trivedi on Monday issued notice to the Central government in plea challenging Section 62(5) of Representation of People's Act, 1951 which deprives prisoners of right to vote.

The impugned provision bars person who is confined to a prison whether under a sentence of imprisonment or transportation or otherwise, or is in the lawful custody of the police to vote. In addition, the provision also bars persons who have been sentenced to a particular period of imprisonment.

The plea states that the provision is disproportionate, unreasonable, and discriminatory since the impugned provision uses confinement as the yardstick for disenfranchisement.

"The impugned provision operates in the nature of a blanket ban, as it lacks any kind of reasonable classification based on the nature of the crime committed or the duration of the sentence imposed unlike several other jurisdictions such as South Africa, United Kingdom, France, Germany, Greece, Canada," the plea states.

Stressing on article 326 of the Constitution which considers right to vote as constitutional right, the plea says any curtailment of such a right must be based upon permissible restrictions found within the Constitution itself, and in the absence of any such restrictions, the curtailment in question is ultra vires the Constitution.

The latest National Crime Reports Bureau (NCRB) report of 2021 shows that a total of 5,54,034 prisoners were confined as on December 31, 2021 in various jails across the country. The number of convicts, undertrial inmates and detenues were reported as 1,22,852, 4,27,165 and 3,470, respectively, accounting for 22.2%, 77.1% and 0.6% respectively at the end of 2021.

Bar on sedition law to stay as A-G says something may happen in House

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

THE Supreme Court's interim order putting the colonial sedition law on hold will continue to operate as it granted the Centre more time on Monday to reconsider the law. Attorney General R Venkataramani, while seeking additional time, told a bench led by Chief Justice of India U U Lalit that the matter was engaging the attention of relevant authorities.

"There is thinking on the matter and hopefully something might happen in the upcoming winter session of Parliament. There is no reason to worry now with the interim order in place," Venkataramani submitted. He also drew the court's attention to the government considering introducing new draft bills for Indian Penal Code (IPC) and the Code of Criminal Procedure (CrPC) in Parliament soon.

Recently, Union home minister Amit Shah had disclosed plans to amend the IPC and CrPC and present them before Parliament. He had said the revamped laws would factor in several suggestions to make them more relevant.

The bench then directed the listing of petitions challenging the sedition law in the second week of January.

On May 11, a bench headed by the then Chief Justice of India N V Ramana had suspended criminal trials and court proceedings under IPC Section 124A (sedition) while allowing the Union of India to reconsider the law.

The bench said that it "hope and expects" that the state and Central governments would restrain from registering any FIR, continuing any investigation or taking any coercive measures by invoking Section 124A of IPC while the reconsideration of the colonial provision was on.

Release of funds delays repatriation of smuggled & stolen antiquities to India

PARVEZ SULTAN @ New Delhi

ADMINISTRATIVE delay is reportedly holding up the arrival of at least nine antiquities — stolen and smuggled out of the country over the decades — from foreign countries. Indian authorities abroad have got possession of these articles dating to 8-15th century in the US, UK and Italy a few months ago. The list of recovered artefacts awaiting repatriation include two quintessential idols — 500 years old bronze deity of Lord Hanuman and Avalokiteshwara Padamapani, the statue of Gautam Buddha sculpted sometime between the 8th and 12th centuries, which were scheduled to reach New Delhi around Diwali, said officials of the Archaeological Survey of India (ASI).

"Their (antiquities) return is stuck due to financial issues. For repatriation, payment for insurance, packaging and transportation cost is to be borne by the ASI, which is taking time. As per the plan, they were supposed to reach around Diwali," said officials.

In February, Union Culture Minister G Kishan Reddy announced retrieval of the two antiquities — idols of Lord Hanuman and Gautam Buddha. The 14-15th century statue of Lord Hanuman was stolen a decade ago from Tamil Nadu belonging to the Vijayanagar period. The Buddha idol was installed at Devisthan Kundalpur Temple in Bihar and had gone missing more than two decades ago. It was handed over to the Indian consulate in Milan. Vasant Kumar Swarnkar, spokesperson of ASI, "All the formalities from the Indian side have been completed. We are expecting that they will arrive soon."

The other retrieved artefacts are three carved stone pillar fragments, black chlorite stele of Surya, an inlaid marble pillar, a sandstone relief, and the 14th century ceremonial Indo-Persian serpent sword. All of these articles were received from Glasgow Museum.

According to the ASI, the pillar fragments are from a temple — probably from Jagannath Monsoon Mandir located in Behta village of Kanpur, which belongs to the 11th century. They were gifted to the Glasgow Museum in 1874. The black chlorite stele is of 10th century. The inlaid marble pillar was obtained from the ruins of an old palace in Gwalior.

The sandstone relief is a figure of Lord Bhairava carved on a slab. The 14th century sword — wavy serpent-shaped blade — has a bulbous hilt and serrated edges.

Centre okays ₹500 cr e-hub for Maha as state loses ₹2.25L cr projects

SUDHIR SURYAVANSHI @ New Delhi

AFTER huge uproar over Maharashtra losing back-to-back big ticket projects worth ₹2.25 lakh crore in the last three months, the Central government on Monday hurriedly okayed a ₹500 crore electronic manufacturing cluster at Ranjangaon in Maharashtra under National Policy on Electronics.

The ruling Shinde-Fadnavis government is facing a huge backlash and the Opposition fire after losing mega projects to other states, notably Gujarat. The three mega projects Maharashtra lost to Guajrat are Vedanta-Foxconn semiconductor chip project, bulk park, and Tata airbus projects in the last three months.

Minister of State for Electronics and IT Rajeev Chandrasekhar on Monday said that the Pune cluster will attract major investments from manufacturers, generate thousands of jobs and put the state in the league of locations that have emerged as vibrant electronics production hubs in the country. The announcement came amid a political slugfest over relocations of big ticket projects to Gujarat. "To make Maharashtra into an electronics hub, we have approved an Electronics Manufacturing Cluster project in Ranjangaon, Pune. The total investment of the government on this EMC will be about ₹500 crore," Chandrasekhar said at a briefing.

The Cluster is targeted to attract an investment of over ₹2,000-3,000 crore, with the potential to create 5,000-6,000 jobs in the coming years. Ranjangaon will join the growing roster of locations such as Tamil Nadu, Noida and Karnataka that are making an aggressive pitch to emerge as a vibrant electronics hub.

Maharashtra deputy chief minister Devendra Fadnavis said that they are extremely grateful to PM Narendra Modi for approving the Electronics Manufacturing Cluster at Ranjangaon in Pune district under National Policy on Electronics by the central government.

THE bridge collapsed on Sunday. As did so much else — families, future, dreams, hopes... For seven-year-old Harshani Chavda, it was her life that came crashing down.

The little girl saw her parents get swept away in the Machchhu river as the suspension bridge gave way, taking the lives of 141 people who had gathered at the spot to enjoy a Sunday during the long Diwali holidays in the state.

Harshani had come with her parents, Ashokbhai and Bhavnaben, from Ahmedabad to visit Morbi. While the couple got washed away, Harshani was rescued.

Speaking to this newspaper, Ashokbhai's father said, "We got a call in the evening and immediately drove to Morbi. When we reached there, we saw that my son and his wife had died, while their daughter survived. She asked for her parents the entire night."

Ashokbhai used to supply medicines to medical shops. He was on a trip to Kutch with his family, and decided to see the suspension bridge of Morbi.

Her eyes full of tears, Ashokbhai's mother said, "My son was my life. His little daughter says she was on the bridge sitting on her father's shoulder. The next moment, he was gone. Our family was dependent on our son's income. But now he has left."

Harshani's distraught grandmother added, "She is seven years old. How will she live? I am more than 70 years old. We don't know till which age we can support her or bring her up. If something happens to me, who will raise her?"

Talking about the state of Harshani, she said, "Since last night, my granddaughter has been crying and asking about when her father will come back, and where is her mother. I don't have an answer."

17-YR-OLD CAME FROM BENGAL IN SEARCH OF JOB

Habibul Sheikh from Purba Bardhaman district in West Bengal came to Morbi in search of a job, but lost his life in the bridge collapse on Sunday. Sheikh, 17, came to Gujarat to work in a gold shop owned by his uncle. Since Sunday was a holiday, he had gone on a fun visit with his friends to the suspension bridge. His body was recovered at night. Habibul's father, Mahibul Sheikh, told the media that he got the news of his son's death late on Sunday. Mahibul is a daily labourer and after the Covid-19 pandemic, the family went through economic crisis. Habibul was the only child of his parents.

My heart goes out to those who died: PM in Guj rallies

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

THE government will leave no stone unturned in carrying out relief and rescue operations at Morbi, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said during a visit to the Statue of Unity in Gujarat's Kevadia on Monday. While giving the speech, Modi got emotional, and said, "I am in Kevadia, but my heart goes out to those who died in the Morbi Bridge collapse tragedy." He also got emotional while addressing a gathering at Banaskantha in the evening.

Speaking at a programme to commemorate Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel's birth anniversary, Modi talked about the bridge collapse and said Patel's decisiveness and focus are an inspiration in such difficult times.

"I am in Ekta Nagar, but my mind is focused on the victims of Morbi. Only rarely in life would I have experienced such pain. On one side is a heart full of hurt; on the other, there is the path of duty and work," Modi said. He underlined how the country stands as one when disaster strikes in any part of the nation. "Everyone is praying for those who have fallen victim. Locals are coming forward to lend support at the site, or hospitals. This is the power of unity," he said.

Rawat takes a dig at BJP on rupee fall

Former CM Harish Rawat took a dig at the BJP during the Jauhar Mahotsav in Haldwani on Saturday. Rawat said that the speed at which the price of the dollar is skyrocketing relative to the rupee, it seems that its value will cross the age of former deputy PM LK Advani. Former Assembly Speaker Govind Kunjwal was also present at the event. Rawat said that the gift of the Manmohan government was a strong economy, that the BJP's double engine government is working to topple. When asked by the attendees about the Congress' failure to take over the reins, he said, "When the time comes, we will, and will also restore the rupee value."

CM announces holiday on 'Budhi Diwali'

Chief Minister Pushkar Singh Dhami has once again played a calculated stroke by announcing Igas Bagwal holiday, leaving the Opposition speechless. Igas-Bagwal popularly known as Budhi Diwali, a folk festival of the state, is celebrated 10 days after Diwali. This is the second time that a holiday has been declared in the state for the folk festival. The CM said that Igas Bagwal is an important festival for the people of Uttarakhand. "It is a symbol of our folk culture. It should be the endeavour of all of us to keep our cultural heritage and tradition alive. Our aim is to keep the new generation connected with our folk festivals and traditions," he said.

The spices produced by her are in demand among hotels and restaurants in Pithoragarh, Didihat, Dharchula, Munsiyari, Thal, Bungachina, Siling and other areas.

In a first, PM & Raj CM to share stage

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

FOR the first time, Narendra Modi as the Prime Minister and Ashok Gehlot as Chief Minister will be seen together on a public stage. Modi will on Tuesday hold a rally at Mangrah Dham in the heart of tribal Rajasthan, along with the chief ministers of Gujarat, Madhya Pradesh and Rajasthan. This meeting, coming just ahead of the Gujarat elections, is being seen as the BJP's effort to woo tribal votes in all the three states. Mangrah Dham in Banswara district is a popular pilgrimage place for the tribals of all the three states that share their borders. Besides Gehlot, MP CM Shivraj Singh Chauhan and Gujarat CM Bhupendra Patel will attend the event.

The Rajasthan BJP is working overtime to make preparations for this rally where Modi will pay homage to hundreds of tribals who were martyred 109 years ago. The hills of Mangarh hold special significance for the Bhils and other tribes of the three states. During the struggle for Independence, the tribal communities fought valiantly for a long time, and on November 17, 1913, over 1.5 lakh Bhils under the leadership of Govind Guru were attacked by the British, leading to the Mangarh massacre where about 1,500 tribals were shot dead.

Modi is likely to make an announcement, granting the status of a national monument to the tribal Dham. Recently, Gehlot had also written to the PM to give Mangarh Dham the status of a national monument.

Modi had come to this place 10 years ago when he was the Gujarat chief minister. The programme of the PM has been made with the aim of deepening the BJP's penetration amid the vote bank in the tribal-dominated districts of Santrampur, Dahod, Mahisagar and Panchmahal in Gujarat.

The BJP units of Dungarpur, Banswara, Pratapgarh and Udaipur have been busy preparing for the PM's visit.

"In Gujarat, tribal voters are dominant in 35-40 seats. During his Gujarat tour in the past, Modi had made a brief visit to Sirohi district of Rajasthan, and promised to be back soon. That promise will be fulfilled now. Rallies in Mangarh affect the politics of the three states simultaneously. Therefore, PM Modi's visit is very important for the BJP," a senior party leader said on the condition of anonymity.

Besides Gujarat, Assembly elections are to scheduled be held in Rajasthan and Madhya Pradesh next year. In Udaipur, Banswara, Dungarpur and Pratapgarh districts of Rajasthan, 16 seats are reserved for the ST category. The BJP hopes that the PM's rally will help them make inroads into the Congress' traditional vote bank in this area.

In Gujarat, tribal voters are dominant in 35-40 seats. Rallies in Mangarh affect the politics of three states. Therefore, PM's visit is very important for the BJP

Assam govt payout to 318 former militants

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @ Guwahati

THE Assam government on Monday offered ₹1.5 lakh each to 318 surrendered militants for their rehabilitation. The former militants were part of groups such as United Gorkha People's Organisation, Tiwa Liberation Army, Kuki National Liberation Army, United Liberation Front of Assam (ULFA) and Dimasa National Liberation Army (DNLA).

Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma, who distributed the cheques at an event here, said the beneficiaries joined the mainstream by abjuring violence, and asked them to use the money judiciously. The CM said that initially, 11 members of the DNLA had surrendered but now the entire group is engaged in the peace process with the government.

"Over the past 18 months, all groups, except the ULFA, joined the mainstream. Many also signed peace accords," Sarma, who became the CM on May 10 last year, said. He added that the state government has facilitated the rehabilitation of 6,780 insurgents so far.

"I hope that we will get ULFA on board some day. I request its military chief Paresh Baruah to join the peace process. It is through talks that we can rebuild Assam," Sarma said.

The ULFA has two factions, of which one is engaged in the peace process. However, the Baruah-led group, which operates out of Myanmar, remains active in upper Assam.

2-finger test regressive, it's an affront to dignity of rape survivors: SC

SHRUTI KAKKAR @ New Delhi

DEPRECATING the regressive and invasive 'two-finger test' conducted on rape survivors, the Supreme Court on Monday asked the Centre to ensure the abhorrent practiced is stopped forthwith.

A bench of judges D Y Chandrachud and Hima Kohli said the pre-vaginum test, purportedly conducted to determine whether the survivor is sexually active, has no scientific basis and instead re-victimises women who may have been raped.

Expressing concerns over the continuation of the practice despite the same being declared as violative of the survivors' right to privacy, integrity, and dignity by the top court in 2013, the bench said it is patriarchal and sexist to suggest that a woman can't be believed when she states that she was raped, just because she is sexually active.

"The two-finger test or pre

'Review medical schools curriculum'

SC called for reviewing curriculum in medical schools to ensure that the two-finger test is not prescribed as one of the procedures to be adopted while examining rape survivors

vaginum test must not be conducted," the SC said, adding that anyone who does the test while examining a survivor shall be guilty of misconduct.

"Whether a woman is "habituated to sexual intercourse" or "habitual to sexual intercourse" is irrelevant for the purposes of determining whether the ingredients of Section 375 of the IPC are present in a particular case. The so-called test is based on the incorrect assumption that a sexually active woman cannot be raped. Nothing could be further from the truth – a woman's sexual history is wholly immaterial while adjudicating whether the accused raped her. Further, the probative value of a woman's testimony does not depend upon her sexual history," it added.

The bench also directed the Union and state government to circulate the guidelines formulated by the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare to all government and private hospitals.

The directions came during the hearing of a plea against the Jharkhand HC's January 2018 ruling of acquitting a man convicted for rape and murder.

Talks of JDU-RJD merger gain currency

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

A slogan on social justice used by JD(U) national president and MP Rajiv Ranjan Singh alias Lalan Singh has sent rumour mills rolling about the possibility of a merger of the RJD and JD(U) in the near future.

Speculations about the RJD-JD(U) merger have been making the rounds ever since RJD's national executive authorised party chief Lalu Prasad Yadav and his deputy chief minister son Tejashwi Prasad Yadav to take any significant decision on the party's name, symbol and other policy related issues.

However, Singh's slogan of social justice on his social media account on Monday only strengthened the possibility. "All of us will make Bihar a developed state by accelerating the pace of development with a focus on social justice," he posted.

Though senior leaders from both the parties are exercising restraint on the issue, it is believed that they are working behind the scenes to make preparations for the merger. It is also said that before the JD(U) decided to join hands with RJD to form a new government in August this year, both Lalu and Chief Miniser Nitish Kumar had decided to merge both parties and float a new political entity with a new name and symbol.

The phrase 'social justice' was used by former prime minister VP Singh while announcing his decision to implement the Mandal Commission's recommendations, and the slogan was adopted by RJD when it broke away from Janata Dal in 1997. Since then RJD has been pursuing its politics by raising the slogan of social justice on all public platforms.

JD(U) was formed with the merger of George Fernandes-led Samata Party and Sharad Yadav-led Janata Dal in 2003. Nitish in subsequent years improved his political prospects by raising the slogan of 'development with justice'.

Both RJD and JD(U) have pursued their political agenda separately by raising their respective slogans and they stuck to them even when they contested the 2015 Bihar Assembly election together and won with a thumping majority.

With the merger, RJD and JD(U) will have a strong number in the Assembly and BJP cannot split the new entity even through its best efforts. JD(U) is particularly more vulnerable to the split as it has only 45 MLAs. Nitish can also stake claim to the Prime Minister's post with the new political party having more number of MPs, and Tejashwi can look forward to being elevated to the CM's post following the merger. If the merger really happens, Nitish in all probability will move to national politics.

Political observers say that the merger will consolidate, at least 50-60% of the voters in favour of this new entity.

Lalu, Nitish in talks for merging parties?

It is said that before the JD(U) decided to join hands with RJD to form a new government in August, both Lalu Prasad and Nitish Kumar had decided to merge both parties and float a new political entity

Lula defeats Bolsonaro in Brazil prez poll by thin margin

Brazilian president-elect Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva delivering a speech to supporters at Paulista Avenue in Sao Paulo after winning the election | AFP

RIO DE JANEIRO

BRAZILIAN president-elect Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva called for "peace and unity" after narrowly winning a divisive runoff election on Sunday, capping a remarkable political comeback by defeating far-right incumbent Jair Bolsonaro — who has yet to accept defeat.

"This country needs peace and unity," Lula said to loud cheers in a victory speech in Sao Paulo.

"The challenge is immense," he said of the job ahead, citing a hunger crisis, the economy, bitter political division and deforestation in the Amazon.

He later addressed a tightly packed crowd of hundreds of thousands of supporters clad in Workers' Party red who flooded the city center, vowing: "Democracy is back."

Bolsonaro, 67, was silent in the hours after the result was declared. "Anywhere in the world, the losing president would already have called to admit defeat. He hasn't called yet, I don't know if he will call and concede," Lula told the massive crowd.

Some Bolsonaro supporters, gathered in the capital Brasilia, refused to accept the results. "The Brazilian people aren't going to swallow a faked election and hand our nation over to a thief," said 50-year-old teacher Ruth da Silva Barbosa.

Truckers and other protesters on Monday blocked some highways in Brazil in an apparent protest over the electoral defeat of far-right President Jair Bolsonaro to leftist Luiz Inacio Lula da Silva, authorities said.

Burning tires, as well as vehicles such as trucks, cars and vans were blocking several points in the central-western agricultural state of Mato Grosso, which largely supports Bolsonaro. Electoral officials declared the election for Lula, who had 50.9% of the vote to 49.1% for Bolsonaro with more than 99.9% of polling stations reporting, in the closest race since Brazil returned to democracy after its 1964-1985 dictatorship.

Bolsonaro becomes the first incumbent president not to win re-election in the post-dictatorship era.

Blue tick: Users may have to pay $20 per month

SAN FRANCISCO

WITH Elon Musk at the helm, Twitter is set to raise the cost of its optional monthly subscription plan, Twitter Blue, which unlocks additional features.

The Verge reported that the social media giant is planning to charge $19.99 dollars (₹1,600) per month for the service that also verifies users. Currently the subscription cost is $4.99.

Verified users have 90 days to subscribe to the new plan or lose their blue checkmark. Musk has ordered the team working on the project to finish it by coming Monday or pack up and leave the company.

The billionaire founder of Tesla began making changes to Twitter just hours after he bought the social media behemoth. One of the first changes was to the homepage.

According to The Verge, logged out users visiting Twitter.com will now be redirected to the Explore page that shows trending tweets and news stories.

Earlier, users who are logged out were shown only a sign-up form. Employees told The Verge that before Musk's takeover, such a decision would have taken several weeks or even months to be implemented. But with Musk in charge, it was done in a matter of hours with employees working very late into night amid rumours of impending mass layoffs.

Core sector output rises 7.9% in September

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE output of eight core infrastructure sectors rose 7.9% in September 2022, as compared with 5.4% in the same month last year, according to the government data released on Monday.

These eight core industries include coal, crude oil, natural gas, refinery products, fertilisers, steel, cement and electricity.

In August this year, the infrastructure output grew by 4.1%. In April-September, the production growth in these eight infrastructure sectors was 9.6% as against 16.9% a year ago.

"No doubt the YoY growth as per the latest figures has been good, but the core sector output continues to be weak when compared with the pre-COVID level (February 2020)." "Output in September 2022 is only 3.1% higher than the pre-COVID level, with output of four sectors viz. coal, crude oil, petroleum & refinery products and cement still trailing the pre-COVID output level. This underscores Ind-Ra's view that the industrial recovery under way still has a lot of ground to cover, before it can be considered a meaningful recovery," said Dr. Sunil Sinha, Principal Economist, India Ratings.

RBI to launch pilot of e-rupee today

Settlement in central bank money would reduce transaction costs, according to RBI

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE Reserve Bank of India's sovereign digital currency is going to be a reality soon as it launches the first pilot -- digital rupee in the Wholesale segment (e-W) – on Tuesday. The pilot for retail digital currency is likely to be launched this month.

The RBI in a statement said in the first phase, wholesale e-rupee will be used for settlement of secondary market transactions in government securities.

"Use of e-W is expected to make the inter-bank market more efficient. Settlement in central bank money would reduce transaction costs by pre-empting the need for settlement guarantee infrastructure or for collateral to mitigate settlement risk," the RBI said. Based on the learning from the first phase of the pilot, the future pilots would focus on other wholesale transactions, and cross-border payments, it further said.

The RBI has been sceptical of private cryptocurrencies (or digital currencies), and has termed them a big risk to the financial stability. It has called for outright ban of private cryptos in the past. However, the government has not taken a firm stand against these currencies, though it has taxed them heavily (including 30% capital gains tax and 1% tax on each crypto transaction) to check their growing popularity. Nine banks -- SBI, BoB, Union Bank of India, HDFC, ICICI, Kotak Mahindra Bank, Yes Bank, IDFC First Bank and HSBC -- have been identified for participation in the first pilot.

On October 7, the RBI released a concept note to create more awareness about the digital rupee. In the concept note, RBI has said the RBI-backed digital currency will provide the public with benefits of virtual currencies while ensuring consumer protection by avoiding the damaging social and economic consequences of private virtual currencies.

As per the concept note, the wholesale e-rupee will work on an account-based model, which would require keeping record of balances and transactions of all holders of digital currency and indicate the ownership of the monetary balances.

Sovereign virtual currency

While wholesale e-rupee will work on an account-based model, retail digital rupee will be token based

- Pilot of Wholesale e-Rupee to begin from November 1, 2022
- It is designed for restricted access to select financial institutions
- Wholesale e-rupee is intended for settlement of inter-bank transfers and related wholesale transactions
- Nine banks including SBI, BoB, HDFC, ICICI, Kotak Mahindra Bank have been identified for participation in the pilot
- First pilot in retail e-rupee will be launched within a month in select locations in closed user groups comprising customers and merchants
- RBI has been sceptical of private cryptocurrencies (or private digital currencies) and has termed them as big risk

- ARPU stood at ₹190 for the quarter as against ₹153 in Q2FY22

Airtel net profit up 89% to ₹2,145 crore in Q2, APRU rises

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

TELECOM operator Bharti Airtel's consolidated net profit grew 89% to ₹2,145.2 crore for the second quarter ended September 2022 (FY23) as against ₹1,134 crore reported a year ago period.

Its revenue increased 21.9% year-on-year (YoY) to ₹34,527 crore, backed by strong and consistent performance delivery across the portfolio and crossing 500 million customers globally.

Its consolidated EBITDA or earnings before interest, taxes, depreciation and amortisation jumped 6.7% for the quarter to ₹17,721 crore, while the operating margin improved to 51.3% from 50.6% quarter-on-quarter.

The company reported the highest Average Revenue Per User (ARPU) among the telecom operators for the quarter. Its ARPU for the quarter stood at ₹190 as compared to ₹153 in Q2FY22. According to the telco, the reason for the improved APRU is its continued focus on quality customers, feature phone to smartphone upgrade and data monetisation. "Our consolidated revenue grew sequentially by 5.3% and EBITDA margin expanded to 51.3%. The consistency of our execution is driven by the strength and resilience of our portfolio. Our B2B and homes business continued their strong growth momentum, while mobile ARPU expanded to 190 on the back of premiumisation and deep customer understanding," said Gopal Vittal, MD and CEO, Bharti Airtel India and South Asia.

For mobile segment, the company posted a revenue of ₹18,957.6 crore, up 24.8% YoY. Airtel said it continued to gain a strong share of 4G customers in the market and added 17.8 million 4G data customers to its network over last year. It is an increase of 9.2% year-on-year. The company said it had also rolled out additional 8,000 towers in the quarter to further strengthen its network coverage and provide ubiquitous connectivity. On 5G, Airtel said it has become the first telco to roll out 5G services with a launch in eight cities and it would cover all of urban and key rural areas of India by March 2024.

"We are rolling out 5G and are confident Airtel 5G Plus will deliver the best experience in India while being kinder to environment," Vittal added.

Government approves 42 telecom equipment makers under PLI scheme

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE Department of Telecommunication (DoT) on Monday approved 42 companies including Samsung, Nokia, government-owned ITI Ltd, Tata group-owned Tejas Network and Foxconn under the production linked incentive (PLI) scheme for telecom and networking products.

Of these selected firms, 17 have applied for additional incentive of 1% under design-led manufacturing criteria."The Ministry of Communications granted approval to 42 companies including 28 MSMEs under the PLI scheme for telecom and networking products," said the ministry in a statement.

The ministry said these companies have committed investment of ₹4,115 crore and expected to generate more than 44,000 jobs over the scheme period. The selected companies under the scheme include global majors like Samsung, Nokia, Jabil, Rising Star, Flextronics as well as local players like HFCL, ITI, VVDN, Tejas Networks, etc.

In budget 2022-23, the government had announced a design-led PLI scheme for telecom and networking products. It provided additional incentive of 1% over and above the existing incentives for products that are designed and manufactured in India. Design-led PLI scheme was launched in June 2022 and applications were invited from design-led manufacturers as well as others, for availing incentive under the PLI scheme for five years commencing from April 1, 2022.

The government also announced that existing firms under the PLI scheme were allowed to add more products. "They were also given the benefit of shifting their five-year PLI scheme period by one year. 22 companies availed this opportunity of shifting their first year, which includes 13 companies who have applied as fresh applicants," said the ministry.

Maruti Suzuki Baleno, XL6 to come in CNG, co targets 4 lakh unit sales

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

THE country's largest carmaker Maruti Suzuki India (MSIL) is extending its CNG line-up to vehicles sold under premium retail chain Nexa.

It targets a 75% jump in sales of these vehicles to 4 lakh units this fiscal. The company is introducing 'S-CNG' option to its premium hatchback Baleno and multi-purpose vehicle XL6 with prices starting at ₹8.28 lakh and ₹12.24 lakh, respectively.

The company has so far sold 11.4 lakh CNG vehicles since introducing the CNG technology in 2010 with three models, Eeco, Alto and WagonR. The carmaker has enhanced its CNG portfolio after it decided to end the production and the sale of diesel vehicles following the roll out of BS-VI emission norms early 2020.

Currently, MSIL has 10 CNG models out of the total of 16 models (that the company sells). With the two new models, MSIL's CNG offering will go up to 12 models. The company said the production has already started for Baleno and XL6 CNG options and that they will start sale in the first week of November. Shashank Srivastava, senior executive officer, marketing & sales, MSIL, said "Through market studies, we have learnt that the premium segment customers are actively looking for eco-friendly options without compromising on performance, technology, safety and driving experience. Baleno S-CNG and XL6 S-CNG have been developed keeping these uncompromising NEXA customers in mind."

He added, "Nexa typically gives about 20 per cent of overall Maruti Suzuki volumes. However, CNG has not been present in Nexa. It is now coming in Baleno, which is around 60 per cent of the total Nexa volumes. So I would expect a good percentage of Baleno S-CNG volume." MSIL claims a fuel efficiency of 30.61 km/kg for the Baleno CNG and a mileage of 26.32 km/kg for XL6.

After Cloudtail, Amazon to delist Appario Retail

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

After the exit of Cloudtail, once the largest seller on its India marketplace, e-commerce giant Amazon has decided to close Appario Retail and delist it as a seller within the next 12 months.

Appario is operated under Frontizo Business Services- a joint venture between Amazon and the Patni Group and at present is one of the leading sellers on the platform.

"Amazon and India's Patni group owned Zodiac Wealth Management LLP have agreed to renew their joint venture, Frontizo Business Services Private Limited. Partners have decided that Appario Retail Private Limited, a wholly owned subsidiary of Frontizo, will cease to be a seller on amazon.in, and amazon.in/business within the next 12 months. The partners will continue to explore new business opportunities, including helping businesses across India to scale up their online presence," as per a Joint Media statement issued by the Patni Group and Amazon on Monday.

This development comes amidst tightening grip of Indian government and local regularity bodies to eliminate predatory pricing of big players and support smaller sellers on e-commerce platforms. At the centre of this issue is conflict of interest as Amazon and Flipkart, beside allowing listing of products, also have stakes in some sellers who list on their platforms.

An official source aware to the Appario delisting said that the move is aimed to avoid any conflict of interest and is being taken voluntarily.

India's Supreme Court last year ruled that Amazon and Walmart-owned Flipkart have to face antitrust investigations ordered against them in the country.

The Competition Commission of India (CCI) had earlier this year conducted raids on the premises of anchor sellers of Amazon and Flipkart across Delhi, Bengaluru and Mumbai to probe complaints of predatory pricing and deep discounting. The raided firms include Cloudtail, a joint venture between Amazon and N R Narayana Murthy's Catamaran, and Appario Retail.

Nifty reclaims 18,000 level, Sensex closes above 60,000 as equity market rallies 1.3%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

THE NSE Nifty on Monday reclaimed the 18,000 mark for the first time since September 13 this year, while the BSE Sensex closed well above 60,000 points after the two benchmarks rallied nearly 1.3% each on Monday, aided by a rally in the US market and fall in crude oil prices.

Sensex closed the Monday session with a gain of 786 points at 60,749 and Nifty finished just above 18,000 - at 18,012, a gain of 225 points.

In anticipation that the Federal Reserve will tone down its aggressive rate hike stance to tame inflation and a similar step would be followed by other central banks, the Sensex has risen over 3,000 points in October 2022. This rally was aided by strong Q2FY23 earnings reported by Banking and select IT firms.

Vinod Nair, Head of Research at Geojit Financial Services, said, "The buoyancy of Wall Street was reflected well in the domestic market, also supported by sliding oil prices following weak Chinese factory data. US stocks recovered from a tech sell-off on hopes that the Fed would hint towards dialling down big interest-rate hikes." International oil benchmark Brent crude was trading 0.31% lower at $95.47 per barrel.

This week, investors will closely track the outcome of policy meetings of the US Federal Reserve and the Bank of England. A surprise meet of the RBI is also on the cards on November 3.

Govt's capital expenditure jumps 50% in Apr-Sept '22

MONIKA YADAVW@ New Delhi

THE government's capital expenditure grew nearly 50% YoY in the first six months of the current financial year, keeping with its budget promise of increased spending on asset creation.

Capital expenditure during the April-September 2022 period reached ₹3.42 lakh crore compared to ₹2.29 lakh crore in the corresponding period last year.

The government has increased the outlay for capital expenditure in the Union Budget by 35.4% from ₹5.54 lakh crore in FY22 to ₹7.50 lakh crore in FY23. However, the government may still be lagging behind in capex to meet its budget target. As per Aditi Nayar, chief economist at ICRA, a 58% jump in capex in September has boosted the average capital spending of the government to nearly ₹57,000 crore per month in the first half of the current financial year, but it is below the required monthly average of ₹62,500 crore to meet the FY2023 budget estimate.

The government, however, continues to remain tight-fisted on revenue expenditures as these expenses rose only 7.5% year-on-year. Revenue expenditure are routine expenses like payment of salary, interest, etc. Out of the total revenue expenditure, ₹4,36,682 crore is on account of interest payments and ₹1,98,879 crore is on account of major subsidies, as per the government release. Total expenditure incurred during the April-September period stood at ₹18,23,597 crore, 46.2% of the budgeted estimates 2022-23. Gross tax collection of the government rose by 17.5% in the first half of the financial year to ₹13.9 lakh crore on the back of strong tax collections across direct and indirect taxes.

Q2 RESULTS

Tata steel profit declines 87% to ₹1,514 crore

NEW DELHI: Tata Steel reported an 87% fall in its consolidated net profit to ₹1,514 crore for the second quarter of financial year 2022-23. It said a global meltdown in commodity prices and a jump in input costs have dented its margins. Its EBITDA was at ₹6,271 crore, 62% as against the same period last year. The company's net debt was at ₹71,753 crore and net debt-to-EBITDA ratio was at 1.37x, while net debt-to-equity was at 0.63x. "Concerns about slowdown in key economies, persisting geopolitical issues coupled with seasonal factors led to a volatile operating environment. Despite these headwinds, Tata Steel registered best-ever domestic sales in India enabled by a strong product portfolio and an extensive distribution network, which services end-to-end requirements in chosen segments," said T V Narendran, CEO and MD. ENS

L&T Q2 PAT increases 26% to ₹2,819 crore

NEW DELHI: Engineering and construction major Larsen & Toubro (L&T) on Monday reported a 26% jump in consolidated net profit after tax (PAT) to ₹2,819.20 crore for the quarter ended September on the back of higher revenue from operations. The company had posted a consolidated net PAT of ₹2,231.33 crore in the year-ago period. The consolidated revenue from operations rose by 22.9% to ₹42,762.61 crore from ₹34,772.90 crore in the July-September quarter a year ago, the filing added. It recorded orders worth ₹51,914 crore at the group level during the July-September period, registering a growth of 23% over the corresponding period of the previous fiscal. During the second quarter, the company bagged orders across various sectors like public spaces, nuclear power, irrigation and renewables. ENS

Rate hike unlikely in central bank's unscheduled meeting on Nov 3: Experts

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

EVEN as speculations are rife over the possible agenda of the Reserve Bank of India's unscheduled meeting on November 3, analysts and experts believe it is unlikely that the apex bank would take any rate action during the meeting.

Market is abuzz with speculation that RBI may go in for another rate hike in its November 3 meeting as the same is scheduled the very next day after the US Federal Reserve announces its policy decision.

They believe if the US Fed hikes rates by 75 basis points (as is expected by many analysts), the RBI may also go in for another hike in keeping pace with the US central bank.

However, State Bank of India Group Chief Economic Adviser Dr Soumya Kanti Ghosh believes RBI's November 3 meeting is to address purely the shortfall in meeting the inflation target for three successive quarters, and it is not going to take any rate action. "The current meeting on November 3 ... is only a part of the regulatory obligation and we don't foresee any other agenda to be announced at this meeting, even as it is scheduled a day after the Fed meet...," he said in a note.

Kunal Kundu, India Economist at Societe General Corporate & Investment Banking, says: "Apart from the fact that the meeting will be held only for one day as against the usual three days for an MPC meeting to decide on the policy rate, the reference to 45ZN makes it clear that the meeting will be held for a different purpose."

Pogba out of World Cup: Agent

Paul Pogba will miss France's World Cup defence as he needs more time to recover from knee surgery, his agent announced on Monday. "Following yesterday and today's medical review in Torino and Pittsburgh, it is extremely painful to inform Paul Pogba will still need recovery time from his surgery," said Rafaela Pimenta in a statement.

Kohli appalled after 'individuals' filmed his hotel room

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

IN a scary breach of privacy, Virat Kohli's hotel room in Perth was filmed in his absence and put out on social media. Kohli termed "absolute invasion" appalling and said it's something that has made him "paranoid". The short video titled King Kohli's Hotel Room showed a man giving a short tour of Kohli's room and showed his belongings.

A day after India lost to South Africa, Kohli denounced the act and expressed his anguish in his instagram post. "I understand that fans get happy and excited seeing their favourite players and get excited to meet them and I've always appreciated that. But this video here is appalling and it's made me feel very paranoid about my privacy," he wrote.

"If I cannot have privacy in my own hotel room, then where can really expect any personal space at all?? I'm NOT okay with this kind of fanaticism and absolute invasion of privacy. Please respect people's privacy and not treat them as a commodity for entertainment."

There were shots of his shoes, health supplements, open suitcase, caps and neatly placed watch.

India already left for Adelaide to play their fourth match against Bangladesh on November 6.

Though there was no confirmation when the video was shot, the hotel India team was staying -- Crown Perth -- tendered an apology and said that action has been taken against 'individuals' involved in the incident. "The safety and privacy of our guests is our number one priority, and we are incredibly disappointed this incident has occurred. We unreservedly apologise to the guest involved and will continue to take the necessary steps to ensure this remains an isolated incident," it said in a statement.

"Crown took immediate steps to rectify the issue, including launching an investigation, standing down the individuals involved and removing them from the Crown account. The original video was also swiftly removed from the social media platform."

Australia batsman David Warner tweeted "This is ridiculous, totally unacceptable. Was this @crownperth?" Kohli's wife Anushka Sharma too lashed out at the breach of privacy.

"Have experienced few incidents, where fans have shown no compassion or grace in the past but this really is the worst thing. An absolute disgrace and violation of a human being and anyone who sees this and thinks 'celebrity ho! Toh deal karna padega should know that you are also part of the problem'," Anushka wrote on her Instagram.

CAUTION BEFORE AGGRESSION

With pacers getting enough purchase, runs are hard to come by in powerplay overs

GOMESH S @ Chennai

AFTER the early exit of India from the 2021 T20 World Cup in the United Arab Emirates, among the biggest concerns was the conservative approach from the top-order. In Rohit Sharma, Virat Kohli and KL Rahul India had formed a top three who took time to get their eye in before accumulating big scores, especially while batting first, in the shortest form of the game.

It was a long-overdue problem for India, which they tried to address as soon as the new team management took over. It's no secret that they had consciously made a choice to bat aggressive in the powerplay under the realm of head coach Rahul Dravid and captain Rohit.

In the lead up to the 2022 T20 World Cup, they were batting at a strike rate of 141.59 in 31 innings during the first six overs. And it is not just India. Australia (140.93), England (134.5), New Zealand (135.7) were all trying to make the most of the field restrictions. It was a well chalked out plan, especially for India, considering how this approach enabled them to set higher totals to chase than just par totals as they used to.

However, the ongoing T20 World Cup in Australia has taken most teams by surprise, to evaluate and rethink their approach. Across venues, the new ball is moving around, troubling the batters, and with the extra bounce that some surfaces have offered, most teams have had trouble batting aggressively during the powerplay. The pacers who could swing the ball both ways are making merry. Although three of the top five wicket-takers so far are spinners, the names of the pacers in the list tell a story. Blessing Muzarabani, Bas de Leede, Taskin Ahmed, Josh Little, Sam Curran, Arshdeep Singh, Paul van Meekeren, Trent Boult, the list goes on.

In the 56 innings so far, teams have operated at a SR of 101.21 in the first six overs. Of the 349 wickets, 108 have come in the powerplay. India, in their three matches, have a SR of 83.33 and average of 16 in that period. New Zealand (123.61) and South Africa (141.37) are the only teams that had directly made it to the Super 12s to score at a SR over 100. And the numbers are skewed thanks to the freakshows of Finn Allen (Blackcaps), Quinton de Kock and Rilee Rossouw (South Africa) in one of their matches.

With every game, it is getting clearer that the conditions get better as the innings progress. And it is becoming easier for teams to catch up in the middle and death overs if they don't lose too many wickets in the first half of the innings. Case in point was how India and South Africa were able to recover in the last 10 overs after the early blow in Perth on Sunday. The teams have started to realise that as well.

Ahead of the South Africa game, India's batting coach Virkam Rathour had said that it might not be a World Cup where both teams post big totals every day. "Of course playing with intent is always the goal. But then we need to keep in account the conditions that we are playing on, the surfaces we are playing on," he said.

In fact, in the game against Ireland on Monday, Australia scored only 38/1 in the first six overs but went on to finish with 179/5. Their skipper Aaron Finch had spoken about biding time early on and taking things deep before the match. And he did exactly that, going from 29 off 25 balls to 63 off 44.

Of course, teams will have to come up with countering plans for their respective bowling attacks. However, if the trend continues, India might just have the top-order best suited for the approach.

Finch, bowlers keep Oz in contention

AGENCIES @ Brisbane

AARON Finch made another scratchy start before breaking the shackles in a half-century that set Australia on course for a 42-run win over Ireland on Monday in a crucial Group 1 match for the defending champions at the Twenty20 World Cup.

Finch has been critical of his own form and took a while to get going before posting 63 from 44 balls as Australia accelerated late to reach 179-5 after being sent in to bat by Ireland.

The Irish got away to a flyer in reply with skipper Andy Balbirnie and veteran opener Paul Stirling each hitting a six in the first two overs before the Australian bowlers struck back ruthlessly with five wickets in 13 deliveries to dismantle the top order and leave them reeling at 25-5. Lorcan Tucker's lone hand of 71 delayed the inevitable, helping Ireland reach 137 in 18.1 overs.

The win improved Australia's net run rate and put the 2021 champion back in contention for a spot in the semifinals despite its heavy loss to New Zealand in the opening match of the Super 12s.

Finch's first half century of the tournament was tempered by a hamstring strain that meant he could only field for seven overs before handing the captaincy duties over to wicketkeeper Matthew Wade and going off for treatment. The Australian skipper kept the innings together, sharing a 52-run second-wicket stand with Mitch Marsh (28), 24 for the third wicket with Glenn Maxwell (13) and 70 for the fourth with Marcus Stoinis, who scored 35 from 25 balls.

Australia's bowlers dominated the power play, with spinner Maxwell (2-14) taking two wickets in the third over and left-arm paceman Mitchell Starc (2-43) bowling Curtis Camphers (0) and George Dockrell (0) with full in-swinging balls in the fourth. Pat Cummins (2-28) and legspinner Adam Zampa (2-19) also took two wickets apiece.

Brief scores: Australia 179/5 in 20 ovs (Finch 63; McCarthy 3/29) bt Ireland 137 all out in 18.1 ovs (Tucker 71 n.o; Maxwell 2/14).

Naib to replace injured Zazai

BRISBANE: Afghanistan have been forced replace opener Hazratullah Zazai, who has been battling an abdominal and kidney concern, with Gulbadin Naib as the former has been ruled out for the remainder of the tournament, ICC said in a statement on Monday.

Fast start and smart strategy paid off: Max

AFP @ Mexico City

TWO-TIME world champion Max Verstappen said the combination of a fast and flawless start and Red Bull's smart tyre strategy were decisive on Sunday when he claimed a record 14th win of the season at the Mexico Grand Prix. The 25-year-old Dutchman, who clinched the constructors' title for Red Bull a week earlier in Texas, took control of the race with a perfect start from his 17th career pole position.

He pulled clear to increase his advantage ahead of seven-time champion Lewis Hamilton of Mercedes, only relinquishing his lead for nine laps after his pit stop before powering away to a comfortable triumph. "It helped me out a lot for the rest of the race to stay in the lead at Turn One," said Verstappen. "Of course, we were also on a different strategy to the cars around us — but again an incredible result. The pace of the car was nice.

"We had to look after our tyres because it was a very long stint on the mediums, but we made it work. "It's such an incredible atmosphere and we love to come here. And it has been an incredible year so far."

Napoli can seal top spot while Spurs face a fight to qualify. A look at the last round of Champions League matches...

LIVERPOOL VS NAPOLI

Jurgen Klopp's mentality monsters have not had a good start to the season. On Saturday, they suffered a home defeat in the EPL, a rarity. Their next challenge is an all conquering Napoli with top spot on the line. Liverpool need to win by a few goals to sneak in top spot. But the Neapolitans will likely begin this as slight favourites as they have begun the season on fire.

MARSEILLE VS TOTTENHAM

Spurs are the leaders in this group but they face the not so envious ask of getting a result in Marseille to advance. While they have not been at their best, they have got the results to go in their favour, a strategy that seems unsustainable. Marseille, though, aren't in the best of form themselves, winning only one of the last five games.

Vihari dropped for Tests against B'desh

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Chennai

AS the BCCI announced four squads for the white-ball series in New Zealand and the tour of Bangladesh that follows on Monday, all-rounder Hardik Pandya, who led India in Ireland earlier this year, has been named as the captain for three-match T20I series against Blackcaps that begins less than a week after the ongoing T20 World Cup in Wellington.

Meanwhile, Shikhar Dhawan will captain the side in the ODIs as Rohit Sharma, KL Rahul and Virat Kohli have all been rested for the tour of New Zealand. Selection committee chairman Chetan Sharma, on Monday, affirmed that no player had asked for rest and that they are managing the workload of the players.

"We have reports from the medical team on who to give rest when and how to manage them," he said during a virtual media interaction.

While there are no surprises in the T20I squad for New Zealand, Madhya Pradesh pacer Kuldeep Sen have earned his maiden national call-up for the ODIs. Rajat Patidar and Uttar Pradesh pacer Yash Dayal have been rewarded for the stellar show in domestic cricket as they have been included in the full-strength ODI squad for Bangladesh that will be led by Rohit.

SELECTION

Squad for NZ T20s: Pandya (C), Pant (vc & wk), Gill, Ishan,Hooda, Surya Kumar Yadav, Shreyas, Samson (wk), Washington, Chahal, Kuldeep, Arshdeep, Harshal, Siraj, Bhuvneshwar, Umran.

Squad for NZ ODIs: Dhawan (C), Pant (vc & wk), Gill, Hooda, Surya Kumar Yadav, Shreyas, Samson (wk), Washington, Thakur, Shahbaz, Chahal, Kuldeep, Arshdeep, Chahar, Kuldeep Sen, Umran.

Squad for Bangladesh ODIs: Rohit (C), Rahul (vc), Dhawan, Kohli, Patidar, Shreyas, Tripathi, Pant (wk), Ishan (wk), Jadeja, Axar, Washington, Thakur, Shami, Siraj, Chahar, Yash Dayal.

Squad for Bangladesh Tests: Rohit (C), Rahul (VC), Gill, Pujara, Kohli, Shreyas, Pant (wk), KS Bharat (wk), Ashwin, Jadeja, Axar, Kuldeep, Thakur, Shami, Siraj, Umesh.

Shaw misses out as well

Hanuma Vihari and Prithvi Shaw are among the prominent names that failed to make the squad for the Bangladesh tour. Vihari, who was India's No 3 in the only Test they played England this year, was not included for the Test series in Bangladesh.

"Right now, we are figuring out based on combinations who would be best suited for the XI for playing in Bangladesh. He was part of the side and he will be part of the squad again, soon," Chetan said on Vihari.

As for Shaw, the former cricketer said that they are in touch with the Mumbai batter and that he will get his chance with the Indian team soon.

Fritz enters Round 2

AP @ Paris

US' Taylor Fritz stayed in contention for one of the two remaining ATP Finals spots by beating Alejandro Davidovich Fokina 7-5, 6-2 in the first round of the Paris Masters on Monday. Fritz rallied from a 2-4 deficit in the opening set and took the second by winning the last four games. Davidovich Fokina made 24 unforced errors to just nine for Fritz. Carlos Alcaraz, Rafael Nadal, Stefanos Tsitsipas, Casper Ruud, Daniil Medvedev and Novak Djokovic have already qualified for the ATP Finals.

Fritz, Felix Auger-Aliassime, Andrey Rublev and Hubert Hurkacz are in the running to round out the eight-player field. "It's been the best season ever," Fritz said in an on-court interview. "No pressure. I'm just trying to have the best result I possibly can. I played well here last year, so I don't see why I can't do it again this year." Fritz has won titles in Tokyo, Eastbourne and Indian Wells this season. He lost to eventual champ Djokovic in the Paris Masters quarterfinals last year. John Isner, Cameron Norrie, Karen Khachanov, Yoshihito Nishioka and Nikoloz Basilashvili also advanced into the second round.

Boe has 'lots of offers but wants to stay with Indian team'

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN @ Chennai

MATHIAS Boe is a wanted man across the circuit. Given his results with the Indian doubles pair of Satwiksairaj Rankireddy and Chirag Shetty, it's not a surprise that other teams are interested in hiring him. Considering that the Dane's contract is running out in a few days, time is ticking.

Boe has been in conversation with the Target Olympic Podium (TOP) Scheme as well as Badminton Association of India (BAI) — he also spoke to them on Monday following SatChi's win at the French Open on Sunday — and is hopeful of signing a fresh contract because 'he wants to stay with the Indian team'. "It's (my contract) not finalised yet," he told this daily.

"Today I spoke to them again. But I hope that we can soon finalise the last details." They have been in talks over a fresh contract for at least the last month but the 42-year-old doesn't know why there has been a delay. "I don't know why," he said. "I speak mostly to TOP Scheme about my contract so they probably have reasons for stalling it a little bit. They are working on it as fast as they can. The boys, they also tell them that we need to finalise it soon. Firstly, the contract is actually getting over in a couple of days. Secondly, with the results I am getting, there have been offers for me. Hopefully something can be finalised soon because I want to have some kind of job. I want to stay with the Indian team."

There are no prizes for guessing that that feeling is mutual. Last week was another example as to why the duo of Rankireddy and Shetty like working with the Dane. They have added consistency and a hunger to be the best version of themselves every time they cross the paint. It's one of the non-negotiables according to the 2012 Olympic medallist. "Game plan is always we want to see the goal of seeing if we can play our best badminton," Boe said. "If we can, then I know that we are good enough to challenge for the title. So, the most important thing is to focus on ourselves and see if we can find our A game. I strongly believe that if we can do that, for most of the matches, we have a good chance of winning. That was what we were trying to do. Last week, everything went our way. We played extremely well without being perfect so yeah, that was really good. Obviously a huge win for the boys. "Tactically we were more disciplined. Our mid court was good. We were good at taking the pace out of the mid court so we could get the attack, angling the shuttles and getting them under the tape instead of driving flat and hoping for the best... so combination of keeping the tactic we planned to do before the match and a more solid mid court. It gave us opportunities to be aggressive and the offense that would set the point up for us."

When everything comes together like a dream, it's no surprise to see elite athletes enjoying a cheat meal. That's why post tournament, the trio went to a nearby cafe to 'have some tiramisu'. But, they are already in game mode. They next play the Hylo Open at Saarbrucken, Germany, from Tuesday.

DAY'S DIARY

Mysore renamed

Mysore gamely shed its centuries-old identity on this day in 1973, to acquire its ordained new name of Karnataka

PRE-INDEPENDENCE

The different pieces that form the state of Karnataka came together over a period of nearly ten years. Around 150 years of British administration had scattered Kannada speakers

FORMING THE STATE

States Reorganisation Act was passed and came into force on November 1, 1956, giving Mysore State its pieces from four different administrative regions

RAJYOTSAVA DAY

Every year, November 1 is acknowledged with great zeal and exuberance – with community events, concerts and celebrations

LAND AND LANGUAGE

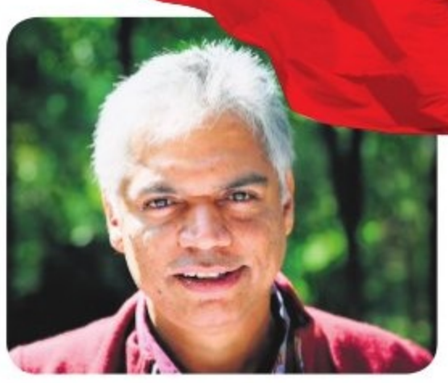
It's 66 years since the formation of the state called Karnataka, and the proud Kannadigas from Sandalwood speak to CE about this day's significance and various ways to continue promoting Kannada – TUNIR BISWAS

RAMESH ARAVIND

I remember back from my schooldays, the Karnataka Rajyotsava brought attention to this state and its language. Every year on this day, it brings all of us together. Even in a multicultural metropolis like Bengaluru, I have noticed that the youth are finding pride in being Kannadigas. All around the city, I also see efforts being taken by non-Kannada speakers to ingrain themselves in our culture. All this has been happening by their own volition and it is a beautiful thing to see.

SHWETHA SRIVASTAV

As a Kannadiga, this day is a very special occassion for myself and all other Kannadigas. It reminds us of our rich heritage. One of the things we can do is impart this knowledge of our culture to the next generation. Then it will continue to grow with the passage of time. Being an artiste, we should continue to promote all sorts of representations of our culture like Kannada literature, theatre and folk music and lores, among other things.



PRAKASH BELAWADI

One of the ways we can promote Kannada is by encouraging people employed in Karnataka to learn the language. We can ask them to obtain Kannada proficiency certificates through TOEFL-type tests. These tests could be conducted regularly, online, by the Kannada Development Authority. In time, these certificates should be made mandatory to obtain jobs in this state, with certification required according to the level of public interaction expected of an employed person. They would understand that this is not only to promote Kannada, but also to promote themselves. Reasonable exceptions from certification could be made for some candidates, but not because anybody feels they don't need to know Kannada.

VASU DIXIT

FOR me everyday is Karnataka Rajyotsava, in the sense that I celebrate the language and this place on a daily basis. All of the work that I do is essentially represents the language and the culture I come from. In fact, I'm doing doing a show for this occasion today in Hampi. So even though I might not be personally celebrating it, I'm directly or indirectly involved in somebody's celebration of the Karnataka Rajyotsava. I think we should promote our heritage through our work and that will get non-natives interested in our culture.

DISHA MADAN

This Rajyotsava I am using the digital medium to promote Kannada, which is my language. We are living in a time when social media is big. So recently I started doing content where I am doing all the narration in Kannada and it has started reaching a lot of people. I have a mixed bag of followers from pan India and for them, I have put the subtitles. I used to get many messages about if I can speak Kannada, now many people from Karnataka relate to my video.

RADHIKA NARAYAN

EVEN though we should be celebrating our culture and heritage on a daily basis, it is great to have one day that reminds us of our roots. For some people, the celebration goes on for a month, which is a wonderful thing to see. However, I don't believe we should force anyone to appreciate our culture. I believe with more imposition, comes more opposition. Instead, we should create good content, which would in turn would lead others to appreciate our language and our art. For example, the success of Kantara has definitely brought positive attention to our culture.

Bengaluru-based theatre personality Sharanya Ramprakash talks to CE about what it means to win the Shankar Nag award and her journey overcoming traditional hurdles in Kannada theatre

Breaking Barriers

DESE GOWDA

SHARANYA Ramprakash was named as one of the recipients of the annual Shankar Nag award presented by Bengaluru's premier cultural institution Ranga Shankara. Alongside Puducherry-based theatre artist Nimmy Raphel, Sharanya will receive the prestigious honour today, when the Ranga Shankara theatre festival kicks off.

"A lot of my work in the last seven, eight years has been in Kannada. So, receiving the Shankar Nag award on (Kannada) Rajyotsava is extremely special. Shankar Nag has been an icon of Kannada culture since I was very young. He melted the difference between mainstream and alternate cinema. He worked in Kannada, but he also made Malgudi days in Hindi, he worked with literary giants such as Girish Karnad, but he also did Auto Raja with its mass appeal. He never saw the two as different from each other, but rather one single art form. I think that's very important for us to remember and that's what he stands for me," says city-based theatre personality.

Having started her professional theatre journey in 2008, Sharanya has made waves in recent years for her work tackling urban and gender issues as well as exploring the 'invisibility of women' in Kannada theatre. In her award-winning play Akshayambara – which was developed through extensive research and her own experiences – she explored feminine representation within the male-dominated art form of Yakshagana. "For a long time, theatre was defined by men; men who were directors, performers, and more. When I wanted to write a play, Kannada theatre had seen very few female performers and an even lesser number of female directors and creators. Now that women have entered, we are finding our own history, we are finding our own future, and our language within theatre," she explains.

Sharanya says that her work as a theatre maker has always been influenced by her experiences as a performer. "I am a performer first and within that I'm also a creator and director. Even when I'm directing, I'm always informed by my experience as a performer. So, these roles never separate from each other," she shares while adding that while she enjoys directing, being 'the captain of the ship' can sometimes feel like a burden.

With nearly 15 years of experience as a performer, Sharanya has seen the theatre landscape of Bengaluru and the rest of Karnataka change. But she feels the pandemic had a drastic impact and accelerated that change. "Earlier theatre used to be very urban-centric, largely in English. It wasn't bad, but it was very different from how it is currently. In recent years, the theatre has shifted to its root, with more Kannada plays exploring our rich cultural traditions. The pandemic was also a game changer because it really struck the root of the community. So theatre is rediscovering itself again, I see a lot of solo work, more introduction of technology and people exploring differing narratives and I also see a lot of marginalised voices," she concludes.

FIT BIT

PARIGHASANA VARIATION

(GATE POSE VARIATION)

The pose is one of the variations of Parighasana. It provides a number of physical and mental benefits. It stretches the sides, spine and hamstrings. This asana is good for entering into Pranayama breathing exercises and meditation.

STEPS

- Begin by kneeling with sitting bones lifted off the feet.
- Now, engage your Mula Bandha, Uddiyana Bandha, and Ujjayi Breathing.
- Then, exhale and extend your right leg straight out to the side with the right foot on the floor.
- Inhale as you expand your chest and hold your arms straight out to the sides, parallel to the floor.
- Exhale, side bend to the right and bring your right hand to your right shin, while extending your left arm over your head to the right with the palm facing down.
- Make sure your chest is rotated to face forward and not collapsing toward the floor.
- Look toward your right hand. Hold the pose for at least 30, and up to 90, seconds in order to receive the full benefits of the stretch.
- Inhale as you come up and bring your right knee back to the floor by your left knee.
- Repeat on the other side.

BENEFITS

- Opens the side body, lower ribs, arms and shoulder.

A lifetime amid horns

ALL of us here in Bengaluru have shared experiences of its traffic. No, no this is not among the million diatribes on our famous traffic, on which we have the GI and patent but the delight of being caught in one, each day, every day of the 365/366 days in a year, leap year, like an unfailing promise in a world of meta reality and slipping relationships on unsocial media platforms.

On one such fine Bengaluru evening on my way back home the traffic caught up with me like a bear hug. (I have decided to accept it as my BFF rather than a perpetual woe). A bright visual advertisement outside a brand furniture store caught my attention. It was about a table, whose height could be altered by the press of a knob. A group of youngsters in bright radiant colours and spirits in the advertisement surrounded the 'magic' table, pressed the knob and crawled underneath the heightened table top like a military exercise albeit comic and with lot of camaraderie and fun. It was mesmerising and I saw myself enacting the table game with all the flab that envelops me like a chronic cushion. The table had changed its cliched role; from being a host to things that are mindlessly dumped on it to a sport of glee. Switch the height and swing under the table like a primate to show your agility. Just when I was losing myself to a character in the advertisement a strong waft of beedi smoke from Amjad – the auto driver, who ferries me back and forth from office - woke me to the blaring horns and a loud pitched ambulance siren. Have you noticed the growing empathy of Bengalureans towards a racing ambulance? Nothing works better than an ambulance to clear the traffic stuffed roads and how each of us contributes in getting it past the jam. It is amusing how we literally sit upon the horns to let the ambulance out of the traffic maze and follow it like a devotee to get past the traffic. Bengalureans are survivors. They run this patience test every time they come out of their homes and get back as mental wrecks to start on the same note the next morning.

Think of it. Traffic need not be a snarl. You need not bare your fangs to people, who 'cut' your path zoom past their vehicles to stop at a signal 50 metres away. For Bengalureans, it has been working in traffic (WIT). Much before the pandemic got a new and much endeared phrase of WFH, Bengalureans have been WIT from the time it all happened. The jury on the history of traffic and potholes in the city is out.

We see people working on laptops inside BMTC buses, cars. I too do it regularly to catch up with a deadline and a frenzied desk back in office. The other day I saw an infant wake up from its sleep and gurgle in a baby seat inside her father's sedan, and her parents watching a video clip on the phone, all in a frame of life inside a Bengaluru traffic jam.

The mantra is don't fret or use dirty words to spew venom on fellow traffic victims. Surrender to the power of traffic and potholes on which people jump, break their bones and die. On signals there should be a running bulletin of lives claimed due to potholes in the city for some awakening in the saheburus.

It happens in Bengaluru and there's a word that this would remain till the return of the Neanderthals. Like the advertisement I mentioned, each of us here in the city is an acrobat trying to figure out the biggest quiz of surviving the traffic and the potholes. Which of the two came first is not something to rack your heads about. Just live it.

REVITALISED REMAINS

Several start-ups and collectives in the city are re-purposing waste materials into high quality fashion accessories

DESE GOWDA

AMONG the biggest issues that this city has been grappling with over the last few decades, solid waste disposal sits at the prime spot. While the issue is largely institutional, and due to a lack of effective garbage disposal policy, a few eco-conscious entrepreneurs in the city have taken matters into their own hands, hoping to make small changes that would help fight the crisis. The result of which, several start-ups and collectives are now re-purposing and up-cycling waste materials to create sustainable fashion and home décor products.

Launched early last month, Desh Ka Bag is a collective of social entrepreneurs, non-profit organisations and firms engaged in solid waste management that aims to tackle the problem of single use plastics in the city. The initiative offers carry bags made out of up-cycled textile waste, which are not only reusable but also trackable and traceable offering an incentive to consumers for reusing the bags, through a tracking system and buy-back options. "We wanted to tackle the problem of single use plastic, starting with plastic bags. Most street vendors still rely on them despite the plastic ban, because they don't have a good alternative to switch to. So we wanted to bring out bags which can remain in circulation for a long time," says Mrudula, one of the entrepreneurs involved in the effort.

Rimagined is a city-based start-up that has been the recipient of numerous awards for its work up-cycling and re-purposing waste material. "We don't look at waste as waste but as a resource. There's lots of both pre- and post-consumer waste that gets dumped and burned or otherwise discarded, despite some of that waste retaining a lot of usability. We try to salvage and bring it to life in a new form," says Shailaja Rangarajan, who founded Rimagined in 2016 after experiencing first-hand the impact of solid waste on the city's environment.

The firm re-purposes materials such as rubber tyres, denim and more to create high quality fashion accessories. "When we design anything, our focus is to minimise the waste, maximise what we have and figure out ways to utilise leftover material. We don't make products which need to be thrown away in two or three months," explains Rangarajan.

Another city-based firm, Kaiyare, which means 'made with hands' in Kannada, re-purposes agricultural waste such as banana bark and lantana to make high quality handbags and furniture. "Lantana is an invasive species of weed that grows extensively in south Indian forests. The easiest way to get rid of it is to burn it. And obviously that isn't good for the environment," says Nikitha Satish, one of the founders of the firm.

Shailaja Rangarajan believes that fast fashion is one of the biggest threats to the environment and hopes that consumers invest in sustainable and long-lasting products. "Buying something very cheap, only to throw it away and buy something else again is not sustainable. We make products that will last for a long time. For instance, rubber doesn't disintegrate, which is seen as a disadvantage. But for us, it's an advantage, because it means our products will last a long time. The denim bags that we stitch can be just thrown into a washing machine and wash it and use it goes on for year," she concludes.

'TAX'ING LOVE

LOVEOLOGY
Mahesh Natarajan

(The author is a counsellor with InnerSight)

ARE you a taxpayer? If you think you are not, you are sorely mistaken. In a country like India, where hardly five percent of the entire adult population file income tax returns or pay any income tax, you may not be paying any direct income tax, but that of course does not mean one does not pay taxes at all. We are all taxpayers, one way or another. There are a dozen other taxes we pay, many of which are quite indirect. We all know that taxes are how the whole society runs and every societal good is paid for, and yet it is something most of us try and minimize for ourselves - we try and pay as little tax as possible, get every deduction and refund we can, and some of us even hire tax consultants who help us do just that.

What does all this have to do with love and relationships?

In our relationships, we often have to give back to governing bodies, a bit of the love and connection we want and get from our loved ones to keep things smooth and functioning well.

Think of it this way: Do you invest time and energy in friends of your partner, or a partner's parents, or activities of the partner, even though you may not particularly like it or want it for yourself? Do you go to a music concert with your partner even though you cannot really tolerate big band music blaring through huge loudspeakers in a small, crowded bar, just to please your partner and win brownie points with their friends?

In a way, that's the ongoing tax for the relationship. These taxes are supposed to be paid so that more common goods can emerge from it. If we pay the tax of trying and connecting with the partner's friends and family, they are supposed to smoothen things out and pave the path for us to be better connected with each other, or at the very least, not be an obstacle to love. The reasonable taxes of pitching in for a short weekend with a couple of their friends, or going for a dance class together, or doing a diet that you don't really have any interest in - all that are like taxes that help build the roads and bridges that your relationship needs.

The odd tax evader aside, most will pay where there is value. The challenge is if the taxes get too high or too unrealistic, or are not useful for us. Nobody will willingly pay income taxes to the government if we don't get good roads, hospitals or infrastructure, would we? If the government raises taxes but doesn't use them for social good, we would rebel.

In love too, if the taxes are too high or are not going to help you love and live better, of course you are entitled to rebel, but - where these expectations are maybe 15-20% of your time, and they give back a lot, why wouldn't you want to pay those taxes honestly and with enthusiasm?

A still from Kranti

Darshan's Kranti to hit theatres on Republic Day

The 'Challenging Star' and the team, who spoke on the sidelines of the release date announcement, says the film is a perfect blend of content and commercial entertainment

A SHARADHAA

DARSHAN is set to return to the big screen with Kranti, which is slated for a Republic Day release. While the buzz of the film hitting the theatres on January 26 was doing the rounds for a couple of days, an official announcement came from the Challenging Star himself.

The mass fans of Darshan are fervently awaiting to see their matinee idol on the big screen for the first time since Roberrt, which hit the screens on March 11, 2021.

Talking on the sidelines of the release date announcement, Darshan, who is playing the titular role in the film told CE that his forte has always been entertaining the mass audience without compromising on the content of the film. "Director V Harikrishna's Kranti revolves around Government schools," says Darshan, who gave examples of noted personalities like SM Visvesvaraya, and Abdul Kalam, who studied in Government schools and made it big in this world. "However, the importance of government schools is slowly fading in our country and has been moving towards privatisation of education. Kranti will tackle this all-important theme, specifically on Akshara Kranti comes an underline message" says Darshan.

Darshan, who always stresses on the line that 'Work should speak', has a lot of exciting things in store for Kranti, which he plans to reveal in the coming days.

B Suresha, Shylaja Nag, Rachita Ram, Darshan and V Harikrishna

Shylaja Nag, who is producing Kranti along with B Suresha under her Media House Studio banner says Republic Day would be one of the best days for the release. The makers are collaborating with the Challenging Star for the second time after Yajamana. "As a production house, we have done offbeat films. However, narrating a subject that is content oriented, with all the required commercial elements, and through a superstar like Darshan is a challenge, and Harikrishna has done a fine job. Since I have watched the film, I can say with confidence that it has worked very well. With five songs and proper action sequences, this will be a very relatable film. Kranti is a perfect blend of content and commercial entertainment."

Talking about her experience of working with Darshan, Shylaja says, "A star to all, he is totally a committed professional,"

With director Harikrishna doubling up as music director for Kranti, the film's cinematography is handled by Karunkar A. The film's art department is taken by Shashidhar Adapa. The film comprising of an interesting cast has Rachita Ram playing the female lead. She is teaming up with the Challenging Star for the third time after Bulbul and Ambareesha. The film also stars Sumalatha Ambareesh, Crazy Star Ravichandran, Umashree, Samyukta Hornad, Vainidhi Jagadish in important roles.

Martin climax shot for 40 days

The AP Arjun directorial starring Dhruva Sarja is looking for March 2023 release

Dhruva Sarja

CE FEATURES

DHRUVA Sarja is currently busy balancing his time at home with his newborn daughter and on the sets of Martin. "I'm still sinking the feeling of being a father. I'm dedicating my evenings after work to my little one," says Dhruva.

Martin, the commercial entertainer directed by AP Arjun is in the last leg of the shoot and it will be completed with a mega-budget climax sequence in two days. Dhruva calls it an out-and-out action film as it demanded him to hit the gym daily with specific requirements.

Interestingly the makers have spent 40 days just for the climax sequence. Arjun, who has roped in Ravi Varma to choreograph the chase scenes and the Ram-Lakshman duo for fight scenes. "The last leg of the schedule had the entire cast and crew participating in the shooting, including Vaibhavi Shandilya, Anveshi Jain, and Nikitin Dheer. It is being shot in a massive set," shares director AP Arjun.

The talkie portions of Martin, produced by Uday K Mehta will be wrapped in a few weeks and the remaining 4 songs will be shot between December and January. The makers are aiming to release the film in March 2023.

Martin has music by Mani Sharma and cinematography by Satya Hegde.

Dhruva Sarja, who has planned to complete the talkie of Martin by November 15, will move on to director Prem's KD on November 24.

Emilia Clarke to headline An Ideal Wife

CE FEATURES

IT has been announced that Emilia Clarke will be starring the lead in An Ideal Wife. The film will be directed by Sophie Hyde, who directed Leo Grande and Good Luck to You. Clarke will be essaying Constance Lloyd, the wife of Irish children's author, Oscar Wilde.

According to Deadline, the film will explore Lloyd's marriage and the repercussions when she learned that her husband was homosexual.

The film is Clarke's return to the big screen after the 2019 holiday romcom, Last Christmas, co-starring Henry Golding. Little is known about the project at the moment and further details such as the primary cast and crew are expected to be unveiled in the months to follow.

In addition to An Ideal Wife, Clarke has The Amazing Maurice, The Pod Generation, and the Marvel series, Secret Invasion, coming up.

TRAILER OF MONICA O MY DARLING OUT

CE FEATURES

THE trailer for Vasan Bala's Monica O My Darling was released on Monday. The film, a whodunit dark comedy, releases on Netflix on November 11.

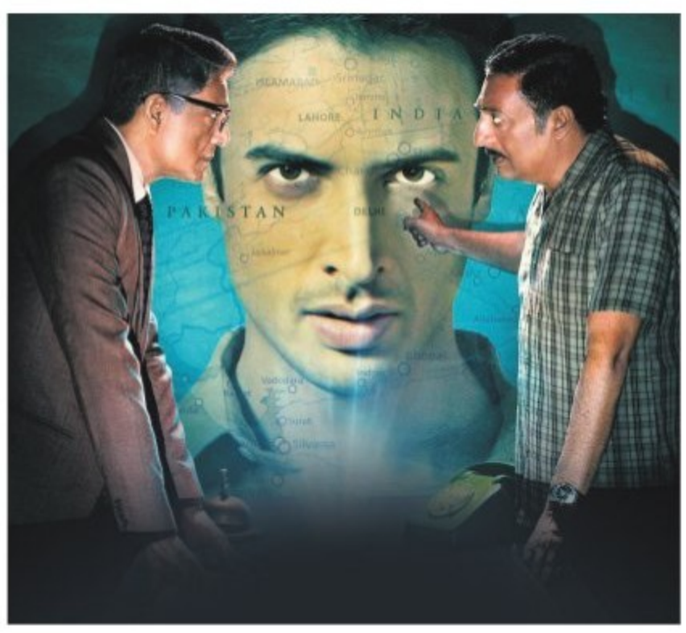
In the trailer, Jayant Arkhedkar, a robotics expert played by Rajkummar Rao, tries to effect the perfect murder, enlisting the help of his oddball colleagues. Huma Qureshi plays the titular Monica Machado. She's been blackmailing Jayant after a botched-up affair. The trailer follows Jayant as he rushes against time to ditch a body. However, a cop, ACP Naidu (Radhika Apte), is on his trail.

Talking about the film, Vasan Bala said, "I am excited for the audience to get a glimpse into the world of Monica O My Darling and be a part of this dark-humored crime mystery. I cannot wait for the audience to see what a fabulous job the cast has done, and it's been a terrific ride collaborating with Matchbox Shots, who have been absolutely superb and I always look forward to working with Netflix and creating ground-breaking, binge-worthy content."

Monica O My Darling also features Sikandar Kher, Bagavathi Perumal, Akansha Ranjan Kapoor, Sukant Goel and Zayn Marie Khan.

The film is written by Yogesh Chandekar. The title alludes to the classic Asha Bhonsle song, Piya Tu Ab To Aaja, composed and co-sung by RD Burman and featured in the 1971 Hindi film Caravan.

Mukhbir: Adil Hussain, Prakash Raj in espionage thriller



CE FEATURES

THE trailer of ZEE5's upcoming espionage thriller series Mukhbir- The Story of a Spy was released on Monday. Directed by Jayprad Desai and Shivam Nair of Naam Shabana fame, the show features Prakash Raj, Adil Hussain and Zain Khan Durrani, who was last seen in Kuchh Bheege Alfaaz.

The series is set at the time of the 1965 India-Pakistan war. The trailer shows Adil Hussain and Prakash Raj as bureaucrats trying to decide whom to send to the enemy country to gather information. Prakash Raj suggests a young, charismatic spy (Zain Khan Durrani). Described as somebody who can "gain access everywhere", Zain sweet-talks, charms and sends intel via morse code from enemy land.

The series also features Barkha Sengupta, Zoya Afroz, Harsh Chhaya, Satyadeep Mishra and Karan Oberoi.

Talking about his OTT debut, Zain said, "I could not have asked for a better project than Mukhbir to mark my OTT debut. I have grown up in Kashmir and have seen first-hand the challenges faced by the people during riots and wars. Hence, being a part of Mukhbir was even more emotional for me. The minute I read the script, I knew that I had to take it up as the character is so inspiring."

Directors Shivam Nair and Jayprad Desai said, "In India, we haven't dabbled much in the genre of 'Historical Fiction'. Mukhbir, set against the backdrop of the 1965 Indo-Pak war and inspired by true events tells a fictionalised story of an Indian spy whose information helped India win the war. With the limbs of spy thriller, Mukhbir at its heart is a human drama."

Stating that the series is a tribute to spies, actor Prakash Raj said, "Mukhbir celebrates the bravery and the sacrifices of the unsung heroes of India, the spies. These spies go unnoticed despite their silent but monumental work and hence, Mukhbir is our tribute to their self-less efforts."

Adil Hussain said, "I am especially inclined towards stories which move the viewers and inspires them to go beyond the ordinary. Mukhbir is one such story which will appeal to every Indian across the globe." The eight-episode series will be streaming on ZEE5 from November 11.

WINGS OF UNITY

November 1st, 1956 was a historic day for Kannadigas. It was on this day that the Unification of Kannada speaking areas was realised. President Rajendra Prasad inaugurated the new Mysore state at Bangalore by pressing a button whereby the big map of the new state of Mysore was brilliantly lit. After invocation, famous vocalist P.Kalinga Rao sang the song Udayavagali namma cheluva Kannada nadu, the popular Kannada anthem.

The President then presented Rs.1000 to Huilgol Narayan Rao, who had composed the song as early as in 1924, and Rs.500 to P. Kalinga Rao who had set it to suitable tune and popularised it.

This was followed by Jayachamarajendra Wodeyar being sworn in as the new Governor of the state and S.Nijalingappa as the new Chief Minister.

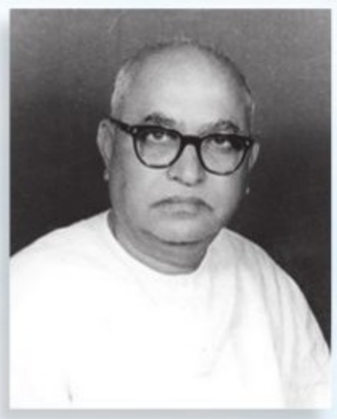
Ever since, with its new personality of togetherness, this day has always tried to remind us that unity is a state of constant activity.

To safeguard this togetherness, one must not think of it as an enchanted garden to relax; instead it is a necessary trek to the highest cliff, where each generation has to hold hands and climb a step, together. The summit might be far, but the holding of hands for a common purpose is what makes a society better, more mature.

And in this united journey for a superior society, the important question that needs to be asked is not what the state can do for us or what we can do for our state, but what can we do to help the state by being responsible individuals, to together achieve all set objectives in a planned manner while always safeguarding our togetherness.

After all, the state has been our dwelling since generations, built inch by inch, with a dream that each day will eventually make a difference for the next generation, and then the next.

First Steps towards UNIFORMITY



S Nijalingappa's government took steps to integrate the different patterns of administrative laws and rules that had prevailed in various regions that were merged in the new state. Uniform scales of pay were evolved for all categories of government servants throughout the state and introduced as early as January 1957, option being given to the allottees from the merged areas to retain their own pay scales if they so desired. These new pay scales improved the lot of the low paid staff from certain regions merged in the new state.

Uniform service rules followed uniform pay scales. Inter-regional transfers were introduced in various departments to instill a sense of oneness among the civil servants. To integrate the different patterns of education, within three months of the formation of the new state, the state government took the step of appointing 'Mysore Educational Integration Advisory Committee' and on its recommendation a new and uniform pattern of education was evolved and implemented.

It's Time to CELEBRATE KANNADA

Late Dr Chandrashekhar Patil had asserted that 'Karnataka Rajyotsava is a day to review the State's problems, explore avenues for a better future of Karnataka, and protect the state and Kannada language from impositions'

Karnataka Rajyotsava is the celebration of the formation of Karnataka as an independent State on the first of November 1956. This, as we know, was a consequence of linguistic re-organisation of States carried out in post-independence years. This is a wonderful occasion for Kannadigas, who irrespective of their religion, caste and region, come together for the Kannada Habba.

There are thousands of Kannada organisations in Karnataka, who commemorate the 'Kannada Habba' by holding conferences, discussions, and morchas, while celebrating the past. Karnataka has a history of over 2000 years and we remember, gratefully, the great events that took place in the span of two millenniums. We recall the struggle for the unification of Karnataka, i.e, Karnataka Ekkikarana. We also celebrate the literary achievements of Kannada writers down the centuries.

It is also an occasion to discuss the contemporary problems that are confronting our State today — internal problems of Karnataka, problems with the neighbouring States and concerns with the Centre.

Rajyotsava should be the forum to sort out these problems, discuss them in detail and chalk out the next course of action on the part of the State Government, on the part of the organisations and on the part of the people at large. Again, we must contemplate on the kind of Karnataka that we are going to evolve in the future — the Kannada Kanasu.

The main motif of the celebration is to assert Kannada identity — Kannada Asmithe. Yes, we are Kannadigas and are different from other people like Telugites, Tamils, and so on. We have our own distinct culture, a distinct set of values, which is a pride of every language, just like Tamil pride, Telugu pride, etc.

One thing we cannot to afford to forget is that we know we are part of India. The Naadageethe penned by Kuvempu, the great Kannada poet, begins with Jaya Bharatha Jananiya Tanujathe, Jayahe Karnataka Maathe (India is the mother and other States of the country are like many daughters of the same mother). So, the message is unity in diversity. We believe in plurality. That is the whole message of the Naada Habba or Rajyotsava, as we call it.

Karnataka stands for national pride along with regional pride. As an expression of our identity, we have our own Kannada flag. That is the emblem of Kannada identity — the yellow, red flag.

The important message of Rajyotsava, irrespective of the political party in power in the State, is that they regard the month of November as a month of re-dedication to the cause of Kannada. They are elected by Kannada people and all their efforts should be geared towards the upliftment of Karnataka as an independent, self-sufficient State, within the boundaries of our national unity.

There is a large participation in the part of the government and the people of Karnataka, throughout this Kannada festival. Karnataka sarkara Kannada sarkara aagbeku annodu namma otthaya — our demand is that the Karnataka government must become Kannada government.

No State in India is a one-language State. There is a main language — Kannada in Karnataka, Marathi in Maharashtra, and so on. But then there are other languages also. For example, in Karnataka, we have Konkani, Kodava and Tulu. They are languages of Karnataka. One can also find Marathi speaking or Urdu speaking people. We are all citizens of Karnataka with our responsibilities.

Irrespective of one's mother tongue, we are expected to respect the language of the land.

Challenges

There are many challenges facing us today. One is in the field of education, especially primary education. Thousands of Kannada medium schools are either closed or are in the verge of closure. That takes us to the problem of the medium of instruction. We are not against English medium of instruction.

In the formative years of a child's education, say from first standard to tenth standard, Kannada should be the medium of instruction. Our children will learn other languages also, but then, Kannada should be the basic medium of instruction — which is our primary demand.

Even in the other layers of education, secondary education, collegiate education and post-graduate education, the language of the land should be accorded a prominent place.

The other major problem is the interstate water dispute. We are surrounded by six neighbouring States — Goa, Andhra Pradesh, Tamil Nadu, Telangana, Kerala and Maharashtra. On one count or another, we have so many disputes. We are brothers in the same family. We want all these disputes to be discussed and resolved at the earliest. The Central government should play an active role in sorting out these differences that would benefit the citizens of the country as a whole.

This apart, we have had to deal with issues such as Hindi imposition. One of the common justifications given by people who want to impose Hindi is that it is the national language, which is not true. It is one of the languages mentioned in the eighth schedule of the Indian constitution. After independence, along with English, Hindi was considered as a link language in many parts of the country. Today, it is being projected as a national language.

Like in Tamil Nadu, Karnataka too should have a two-language policy. The two languages for the State government can be, Kannada, for official communication within the State, and English, for communication with the Centre or other States. Though we believe in the federal structure of the government, we resist the imposition of any other language over our own.

With hopes and aspirations for the future, and faced with a variety of challenges, we will have to continue to fight and struggle for a better Kannada Naadu.

Movement of TRANSFORMATION

After independence of India in 1947, the Mysore Chalo movement transformed the state's administration by seeking a responsible government in the state of Mysore

S. SRINIVAS

The princely state of Mysore under the Wodeyar dynasty had accepted the paramountcy of the British since 1799. In 1947, when the British relinquished their paramountcy over the Indian princely states and provinces, Sardar Vallabhbhai Patel as the Minister of States Department, was able to convince the majority of Indian Princes to accede to the Indian Union. The then Maharaja of Mysore, Jayachamarajendra Wodeyar had signed the Instrument of Accession and Mysore joined the Indian Union.

In Mysore state, educated nationalists had formed a Congress unit way back in 1921 under the Presidentship of S.S.Setlur, former Justice of Mysore High Court.

The same year the Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee was formed with its jurisdiction over North Kanara, Belgaum, Bijapur and Dharwad district coming under Bombay Presidency. The INC had prohibited the Congress units established in princely states, in involving themselves in agitational activities and had urged them to confine their functioning to constructive activities like enrolment of members, campaign against drinking and untouchability, promotion of Khadi, cow protection, propagation of Hindi, etc.

But the political happenings, especially under Gandhiji's direction in British India and also the holding of A.I.C.C. session at Belgaum (1924) created to a wave of enthusiasm among the nationalists in Mysore. The Congress in Mysore got a shot in its arm when the Praja Samyuktha Paksha, an influential Party in Mysore state merged with the Congress and formed Mysore Congress in 1937. Prior to India's Independence, the Mysore Congress had proved its popularity by winning 125 seats in the Representative Assembly in the election held in 1945.

After Mysore's accession to the Indian Union, the Mysore Congress had been demanding responsible Government to be introduced in Mysore. As the Maharaja did not concede the demand, the Mysore Congress under the leadership of K.C.Reddy, decided to launch a satyagraha known as Mysore Chalo movement. Defending the Congress decision to launch a sathyagraha, K.C.Reddy said that under the existing Mysore constitution no resolution relating to constitutional reforms could be tabled in the legislature. On several occasions the president of the legislative assembly and the Dewan as president of the representative assembly had disallowed resolutions bearing on reforms on the plea that they could not be discussed. According to Reddy way back in 1945 some 273 members of the legislative assembly had sent a memorial to the Maharaja for grant of responsible government. This memorial was also signed by members of other political parties besides Congressmen, but no acknowledgement was received.

After Mysore's accession to the Indian Union, the Mysore Congress had been demanding responsible Government to be introduced in Mysore. As the Maharaja did not concede the demand, the Mysore Congress under the leadership of K.C.Reddy, decided to launch a satyagraha known as Mysore Chalo movement.

On 1st September 1947, K.C.Reddy as President of Mysore Congress unfurled the Indian Union flag in Subashnagar, Bangalore. Over 40,000 people had assembled to hear Reddy's speech wherein he said that the sathyagraha would not be stopped till certain demands were met like — A royal proclamation announcing the formation of responsible government, establishment of a Constituent Committee of about 25 persons for framing the constitution of the state, formation of an interim ministry consisting of people enjoying the confidence of the public and release of all political prisoners.

On 4th September 1947 K.C.Reddy and other Congress leaders like K.T.Bashyam, H. Siddalingiah, H.K.Veeranna Gowda, T.Subramanya, S.Chenniah and others were arrested. Pre censorship orders on dailies like Tainadu, Vishwa Karnataka and Pouravani was issued. But popular response was unprecedented and students and labourers participated in thousands, and were arrested. Over 20 people were killed in the state as sequel to police firing.

The situation deteriorated further during the third and fourth weeks of September.

The rail strike and sabotage of communication facilities led to the breakdown of contact between Bangalore and Hassan. On 19th, a large batch of Bangalore city police constables came out on strike and marched from station to station asking their colleagues to join them. Volunteers from outside the state joined Mysoreans in a campaign to set up parallel governments in rural areas near the state borders and serious agitation in moffusil centers rendered the normal functioning of the government impossible. At last the Maharaja was forced to yield. He agreed to establish a responsible government on 24th October and K.C.Reddy was sworn in as the Chief Minister on 27th of October. The long cherished popular demand was thus fulfilled.

AWAKENING OF UNITED CONSCIOUSNESS

Unification of Karnataka first started as a protest against linguistic oppression, and went on to demand the creation of a separate state consolidating all Kannada-speaking regions

Maharaja's College was an active hub for student protests during the movement

The formation of separate provinces like Assam, Bihar, Orissa on linguistic basis after the divided Bengal were united into one in 1912, publication of books on Karnataka's history, the freedom movement and the inspiring writings of Alur Venkata Rao, Huilgola Narayana Rao, Kuvempu, Bendre and others created a thirst for independence and also Unification of the Kannada-speaking regions. Alur Venkat Rao, who was called Kannada Kula Purohita, for awakening the consciousness of Kannadigas, rendered yeoman service for the cause of Unification. In 1916 he founded the Ekikarana Sabha at Dharwad, with unification of Karnataka as its goal.

As early as in 1903, Benagal Rama Rao delivered a lecture at Dharwad, stressing the need for the unification of Kannada speaking regions into a single Presidency. In 1920, a separate Karnataka Pradesh Congress Committee was constituted for the Kannada speaking regions. In 1924, the all-India Congress session under the Presidentship of Mahatma Gandhi was held at Belgaum. At the session, the Kannada anthem, Udayavagali namma cheluva Kannadanadu, calling for the creation of beautiful Kannada state, composed by Huilgol Narayana Rao was sung.

The first Karnataka Unification Conference was held at the same venue and presided over by Sir Siddappa Kambli. The Karnataka Ekikarana Sangha was founded at the conference and it held its conferences time and again.

In 1926, the Hindustani Seva Dal, founded by Dr.Hardikar conducted a signature campaign in favour of Unification and collected 36,000 signatures. But it was not an easy task to bring people who were under 20 different administrations in a single province and it was felt that with the country attaining the freedom, unification could also materialise.

Movement for Unification

After Independence, the President of the Constituent Assembly set up a linguistic provinces committee on 17th June 1948 with S.K.Dhar as Chairman. The Dhar Commission was asked to report what new provinces were to be created and also state 'the administrative, financial and other consequences' of the creation of new provinces.

The Commission in its report submitted on 10th December 1948 expressed itself against any reorganisation of provinces being undertaken in the then prevailing circumstances. At the Jaipur session of the Indian National Congress in December 1948, the Congress appointed another committee known as the J.V.P.Committee consisting of Jawaharlal Nehru, Vallabhbhai Patel and Pattabhi Seetharamaiah to consider the question of linguistic states and review the position in the light of the findings of the Dhar commission.

After thorough deliberation, the committee came to the conclusion that formation of linguistic provinces should be postponed by a few years. Claims and counter claims over various regions, like Bombay city being claimed by both the Maharashtrians and the Gujaratis or Madras by the Tamils and the Telugus, being looked as main hurdles. But it conceded the demand for the formation of Andhra province.

On the eve of the first general election in 1951-52, the Congress in its election manifesto said that the formation of linguistic provinces was in its agenda. But after coming to power it did not take any initiative in this direction.

The 'Akhanda Karnataka Rajya Nirmana Parishad' was formed in Karnataka with K.R.Karanth as President, with a view to pressurise the Central government to concede the demand for the formation of linguistic provinces.

In Madras, Potti Sriramulu undertook his epic fast on 19th October 1952 to press for the formation of Andhra province and on 15th December 1952 he died. There was widespread violence in Andhra region and on 19th December, Nehru announced the formation of the Andhra state. This resulted in the district of Bellary being transfered to Mysore.

In Karnataka, at the by-election held at Dharwad and Hubli for the Bombay legislature, the Ekikarana Paksha candidate defeated the Congress candidate.

Finally on December 29, 1953, the Government of India appointed the States Reorganisation Commission with Fazl Ali as Chairman, Hridaynath Kunzru and K.M.Pannikar as members to examine the whole question of the reorganisation of the states of the Indian union objectively and dispassionately, so that the welfare of the people of each constituent unit as well as of the nation as a whole is promoted.

The Commission considered 1,52,250 documents, interviewed over 9,000 persons and traveled 38,000 miles before coming to its conclusion. Most of the documents submitted to the Commission were simple telegrams, printed resolution, etc. denoting the wishes of particular localities. The Commission submitted its report on 30th September 1955.

Recommendation of the Fazl Ali Commission

The Commission among other things recommended the merger of the following regions for the formation of a United Karnataka. They consisted of Mysore state, including Bellary district, the districts of Dharwad, Bijapur, North Kanara and Belgaum (except Chandgad taluk), South Kanara district (except Kasargod taluk), Coorg (Kodagu), Gulbarga district (expect Kodangal and Tandur taluks), Raichur district (except Alampur and Gadval taluks) and Bidar district consisting of Bidar, Bhalki, Aurad and Humnabad taluks.

Kollegal taluk from Coimbatore district of Madras Province was merged with Mysore district.

The Commission also recommended the abolition of the post of 'Rajapramukh'. The new state had 19 districts.

Mysore's Reluctance to lose its Identity

The benevolent rule of the Wodeyars had seen Mysore making progress in various fields like industries, commerce, education and culture. Somuch so the state had earned the epithet 'model state' and Gandhiji had called Krishnaraja Wodeyar IV as 'Rajarshi'. Though the people here sympathized for their brethren outside Mysore, many did not show enthusiasm for a United Karnataka.

Some of the prominent personalities of Mysore who were opposed to United Karnataka included politicians like Kadidal Manjappa, former Diwans of Mysore like Sir M. Visveswaraya, Sir Mirza Ismail and scholars like D.V.Gundappa and M.P.L.Sastri. They wanted the formation of two Karnataka, one with Mysore and adjoining areas of South Kanara, Coorg and Kollegal and other comprising the Kannada speaking districts of Bombay and Hyderabad states. Regarding the suggestion of the removal of the post of Rajpramukh, Mirza Ismail, the former Diwan of Mysore felt that it was a total disregard for the solemn undertaking given by the government of India before the accession of Mysore that he would be left undisturbed.

Both Mirza and Sir.M.Visveswaraya felt that Mysore would lose its identity and pushed into a backward economic position by merging with other parts of Kannada speaking areas. It was estimated that in United Karnataka, nearly 20% of the population will be Lingayats, 13 to 14% be Vokkaligas and 17 to18% Dalits. The opposition to unification was also due to the fact that the Lingayat community would dominate the political arena of the state after Unification due to its numerical strength.

This opposition was so serious that Chief Minister of Mysore, K.Hanumanthaiah who supported unification was forced to relinquish his office as some of his supporters expressed no-confidence in his leadership.

But following the diktat from the Congress Party High Command, Kadidala Manjappa (who opposing the Unification had rebelled against K.Hanumanthiah and had stepped into his shoes) and his cabinet colleagues had to accept the proposal for Unification.

On November 1st 1956 President Rajendra Prasad inaugurated the new Mysore state at Bangalore To console the hurt sentiments of the antimergers in Mysore, the state was called New Mysore after unification and only in November 1973 it could be renamed as Karnataka.

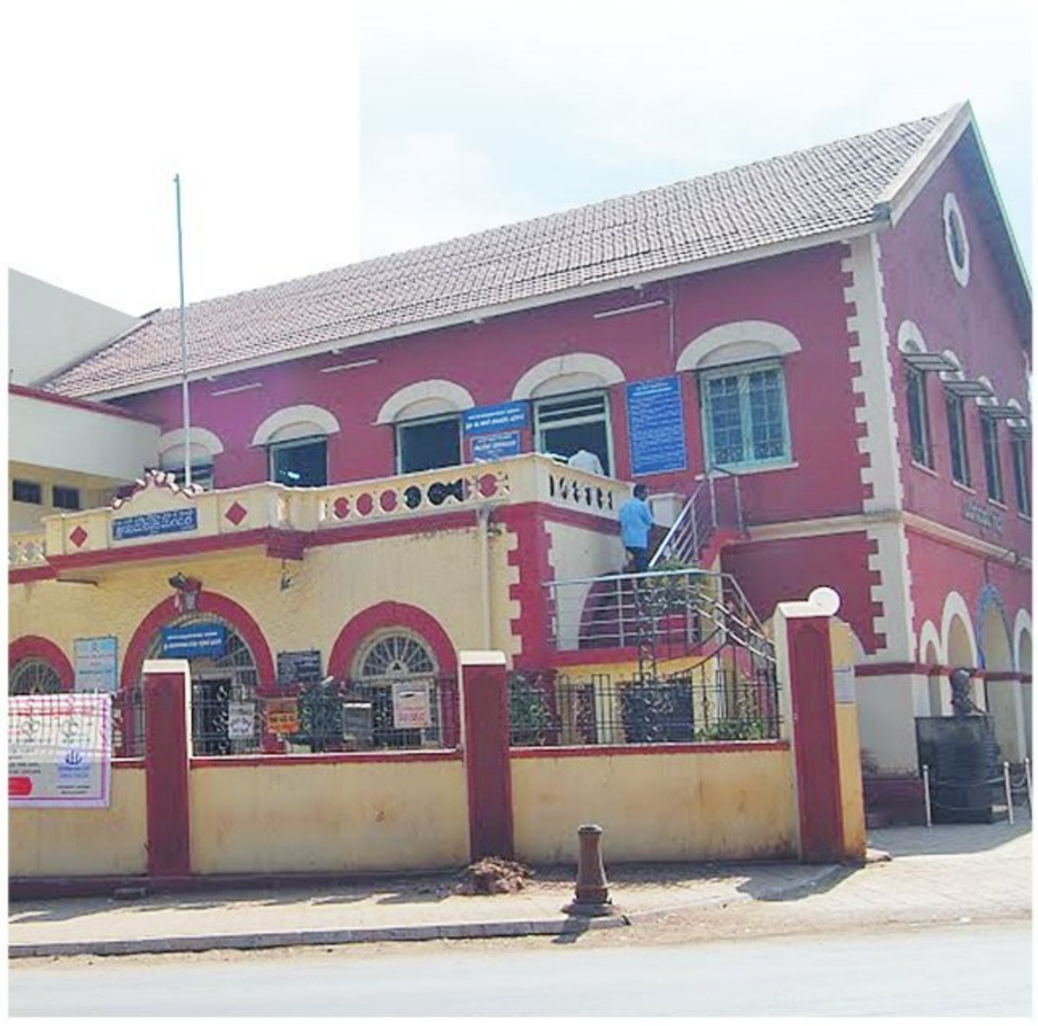
INSPIRING PILLAR OF KANNADA & CULTURE

The Karnatak Vidyavardhaka Sangha was an institution established on 20 July 1890 by R H Deshpande in Dharwad which was then under the British rule of Bombay Presidency. This institution was established with the sole objective of promoting Kannada culture and language in times when the Kannada speaking regions of present day Karnataka were split into six different areas, where Kannada was often overshadowed by other languages.



The name of Vidyavardhak Sangha often flashes itself upon any reference of Karnataka unification and Kannada language.

Its immense contribution towards the unification of Karnataka state is undoubtedly supreme.

After the downfall of the Vijayanagara Empire, through the period of British rule, Karnataka was divided into six parts, namely Bombay Karnataka, Hyderabad Karnataka, Madras Karnataka, Coorg, Mysore and smaller princely states like Mudhol, Jamkhandi, Savanur etc.

The result was that the Kannada culture and language in these areas were eclipsed by other cultures. For example, in the four districts of Dharwad, Belgaum, North Kanara and Bijapur districts that comprised Bombay Karnataka, Kannada culture and language had suffered severe setbacks due to prolonged Maratha rule.

When the British introduced their system of education in this area, they were under the impression that these districts were part of Maharashtra and started Marathi schools there. Walter Elliott, Deputy Collector of Dharwad, soon found that the language of the people was Kannada, but Marathi was imposed upon them.

Out of sympathy for the Kannada people and his knowledge of Kannada, Elliot started Kannada schools in Dharwad around 1830. Balashastri Jambhekar, an education officer of the Bombay Government, also felt that the since the language of the people was Kannada, there should be Kannada schools in these four districts.

A determined effort to establish Kannada schools was made by W. A. Russell, who after serving as Professor in the Deccan College at Pune, was appointed as Educational Inspector of the Southern Division of the Bombay Province.

To Russell's amazement, he found that there were not a sufficient number of persons who could teach Kannada effectively. He induced officers in other departments of the Bombay Government who were Kannadigas and who knew Kannada sufficiently to join the Education Department.

Among them were Deputy Chennabasappa, Gangadhara Madivaleshwara Turumari, Srinivas Rodda, Bhujangarao Huilgol, Venkatarangu Katti and others.

When R. H. Deshpande, who was studying in the Deccan college, passed his M.A. examination with a gold medal in 1884, Russell persuaded him to join the Education department and assured him that he would, with his stellar academic career, soon replace him as the Inspector of the Southern Division.

True to his word, Russell promoted Deshpande as deputy inspector of Karwar within a few months of his joining Sardar High School in Belgaum. However, Russell was subsequently shifted from his post and in his place a Marathi officer was posted.

For the next 25 years, three Marathi officers ruled over the Bombay Karnataka area and introduced Marathi in the Kannada schools. Deshpande naturally resented this and decided to revolt against this foisting of Marathi on Kannada children, but as a Government servant, there were restrictions on what he could do.

He took shelter under the British policy of encouraging education in the vernacular language and decided to establish a Sangha for the protection of Kannada and the Unification of the Karnataka areas. Thus the Karnataka Vidyavardhaka Sangha came into being on 20 July 1890.

Charter of the Sangha

The first charter of the new body was to publish books in Kannada.

Kannada could live and thrive only through books and journals so the Sangha brought out its first publication two years after it was established and then came the first Kannada literary and cultural journal Vagabhushana.

Since Kannada was the mother tongue of the rulers of Mysore, Deshpande enlisted the support of the Maharaja of Mysore, Chamaraja Wodeyar for the Sangha.

The Government of Mysore used to send its scholars to conduct Kannada exams which the Sangha used to hold periodically. It also gave money for the construction of a building for the Sangha which was appropriately named as Chamaraja Mandira.

The Sangha organised the first conference of Kannada writers in Dharwad in 1905. This was the precursor of the present-day Kannada Sahitya Sammelan (annual literary conference). In 1912, when Sir Mokshagundam Vishweshwaraiah became the Diwan of Mysore, Deshpande who knew him intimately, wrote him a letter congratulating him on his appointment and further requested him to foster more attention on the development of the Kannada language and culture.

As a result, Mysore convened the first conference of Kannada writers from all parts of the country in Bangalore in 1915. The conference decided among other things to establish the Kannada Sahitya Parishat on the lines of the Karnataka Vidyavardhak Sangha.

Deshpande and Justice R.A. Jagirdar (later the first Vice Chancellor of Karnataka University), served on a committee appointed by the conference to draft the constitution of the Kannada Sahitya Parishat. Thus came into being yet another organization working for the welfare of the Kannada country as a whole.

Resolution of Unification

Strengthened by these developments, the Karnatak Vidhyavardhak Sangha at its meeting on 7 October 1917 passed a resolution urging the Government of India to bring under one administrative unit all the Kannada towns, talukas and districts then under the British rule and name the unit as the Karnataka province.

This demand was reiterated in 1923 and on 25 February 1935 telegrams were sent to the Viceroy to bring under one administration all Kannada speaking areas.

The Sangha was responsible to a certain extent in the founding of the Karnataka Research Institute in 1937. the Karnataka University in 1949, the All India Radio station at Dharwad in 1950, etc.

'United Karnataka Not a Result of Its CULTURAL ROOTS'

When formation of the new state of Karnataka was on the anvil, the leaders of Mysore agreed for unification with their own interpretation. Though they fought for a united state, they demanded that the new state should be named 'Mysore', the Maharaja should be made the governor, and Bangalore its capital. Those who fought for the unification agreed to all these demands, being satisfied with coming together as a new state.

Late Patil Puttappa, a writer, veteran journalist and activist based in Hubballi had vehemently stated that the credit of unification should go to North Karnataka

Karnataka's heterogeneous linguistic and religious ethnicity along with their long histories have contributed immensely to the varied cultural heritage of the state. But in my opinion, to state that the cultural roots of different parts of Karnataka have kept the State united is inaccurate. Over the years, it is North Karnataka which has contributed immensely towards keeping the State united and in enriching the land, language and culture.

Before discussing any 'cultural binding' between different parts of Karnataka, namely Bombay Karnataka, Mysore Karnataka, Coastal Karnataka, and Hyderabad Karnataka, it would be important to know the driving force behind the unification of Karnataka and the people who played a pivotal role in the formation the new state of Karnataka, then Mysore.

The movement for united Karnataka started in Dharwad way back in 1856. Kannada language was suppressed for a long period; Marathi, Urdgu, Telugu and English affecting growth of the language. Add to that, Kannada had no godfathers to help in its survival.

Although Dharwad was in the heart of the Kannada country, it was considered part of Mumbai government. Because of the predominance of Marathi, Kannada areas in Bombay state were wrongly called as Southern Maratha country.

The revival of Kannada started from Dharwad when Channabasappa was appointed as Principal of a school in 1861. Later, as the Deputy Educational Inspector, he strived to establish Kannada medium schools and hostels in the Bombay-Karnataka region.

In 1890, R H Deshpande returned from Bombay and established the Dharwad based Karnataka Vidyavardhaka Sangh along with like-minded young men, such as Rodda Srinivasrao, Karpur Srinivasrao, Koujalagi Srinivasrao, Gadigeyya Honnapurmath and Alur Venkat Rao.

Deshpande and his core team then met the Diwan of Mysore, M Visweswaraya in Bangalore and prevailed on him to establish a Kannada centre to fight for Kannada language. Their persuasion prevailed on Visweswaraya to establish the Kannada Sahitya Parishat in 1915.

Widely regarded as one of the pillars of modern Kannada literature, Prof B M Srikanthaiah was another individual responsible for reviving Kannada language. He was associated with its modernisation with a band of young Kannada writers whom he had nurtured.

While these individuals were fighting for the Kannada cause, Mysore state's Kannada leaders were very enthusiastic about a united Karnataka state. But when the Maharaja gave them the reigns of responsible positions, their enthusiasm slowly melted away because they were enjoying the fruits of their own government. Only a few leaders were for united Karnataka, Kengal Hanumantaiah being one.

When demand for a new Karnataka state was gathering momentum, Mysore was nowhere near the fighting arena. Only a handful of leaders such as Khadri Shamana, Harnahalli Ramaswamy, Shantaveri Gopalagowda, Mallikarjunappa Gowda, Ballri Siddamma, Ganji Veerappa were supporting the movement.

The fight for a new Karnataka state reached its crescendo when people carried out their struggle into the state and courted imprisonment. In 1953, Adaraguchi Shankaragowda, a noted freedom fighter, undertook a fast unto death demanding united Kannada state. His fight for Karnataka unification made history when the news was published in the New York Times.

Following the limelight, the Government of India constituted a three-man committee to reorganise the states on linguistic bases. The Committee was headed by retired chief justice of India, Fazal Ali. Pandit Hridayanath Kunzru and Sardar K M Panikkar were its members.

When formation of the new state of Karnataka was on the anvil, the leaders of Mysore agreed for unification with their own interpretation. Though they fought for a united state, they demanded that the new state should be named 'Mysore', the Maharaja should be made the governor, and Bangalore its capital.

Those who fought for the unification agreed to all these demands, being satisfied with coming together as a new state.

Post Unification

When the new state was created in 1956, the areas of old Mysore were already developed in all aspects, a fact visible even today.

North Karnataka was backward and the Nizam territories were much more underdeveloped than the area under the British Rule, mainly Mumbai Karnataka.

People of Mysore had a sense of superiority, which prevails even after 62 years of unification.

When the new state was formed, it started with a disadvantage. The old secretariat began functioning as the secretariat of the new state. A handful of secretariat staff came from Bombay, a meager number from Madras and quite a few from Hyderabad.

So, the new secretariat functioned just as a secretariat of old Mysore. Every year, when the time to allocate funds came in March, the officers behaved unfairly.

And the differences can be seen even now. For instance, Belikeri Port towards the West Coast in Ankola could have been an excellent all-weather port, but there was no godfather to help in its development.

Even writers like Pu Ti Narasimhachar were of the opinion that all the trouble of the state are heaped by Bengaluru. A report prepared by retired bureaucrat Chiranjeevi Singh, 30 years ago, pending before the government, has not been accepted. The report batted for a new capital along the Tungabhadra River, keeping the river bank as the centre and developing the city ten miles around it.

Cementing Factor

Although the North Karnataka region has been awfully neglected in every respect, the only cementing factor is the Kannada language, not any cultural roots. Since the region is quite rich in all aspects, it has never been dependent on other parts of the state.

Take the example of kingdoms that ruled the state. Only Wodeyar dynasty and Tippu Sultan ruled a tiny part of the state, but Chalukyas of North Karnataka had spread its rule up to Nepal. Vijaynagara Kingdom, Rashtrakootas, and Kadambas had also left indelible mark in the history of the nation.

The Kavirajamarga was authored during the rule of Rashtrakootas. Kannada language was made richer during Vachana and Dasa movements that emanated from North Karnataka. Sarvajnya, the most progressive poet, was from this region and made Kannada language to reach the common man. During the rule of Chalukyas, Kannada was spread even in the Eastern part of the nation.

Culturally also, North Karnataka has remained way ahead in various forms of arts as compared to that of other parts of the state. Even in the field of music, fine arts and performing arts, the region carved a niche for itself.

So, in my opinion, the statement or argument that the cultural roots of different parts of the Karnataka kept the state united holds no water.

(Patil Puttappa embarked on to his heavenly abode on 16 March 2020. He had written this article for The New Indian Express on Rajyotsava Day in 2017. He was the founder-editor of the now-defunct Kannada daily Vishwavani and weekly Prapancha.)

MIGHT OF THE PEN

The idea of Karnataka was primarily nurtured around linguistic identity and the literary 'kingdom' in the state played a vital role in transforming the thought process among the people

Seated L to R: Masti Venkatesh Iyengar, D. V. Gundappa, Kuvempu, M. V. Seetharamiah, K. Shivaram Karanth, A.N. Krishna Rao (Anakru) and G.P. Rajarathnam

While the first quarter of the 20th century was a period of experiment and innovation, the succeeding quarter was one of creative achievement. This period saw the rise of acclaimed lyricists whose works combined native folk songs and the mystic poetry of the medieval vachanas and kirthanas with influences from modern English romantics.

D. R. Bendre, with his collection of 27 poems including such masterpieces as Gari (Wing, 1932), Nadaleele (1938) and Sakhigeetha (1940), was perhaps the most outstanding Kannada lyricist of the period. His poems covered a wide range of themes including patriotism, love of nature, conjugal love, transcendental experiences and sympathy for the poor. Govinda Pai narrated the story of Christ's crucifixion in his work Golgotha (1931). The success of this work encouraged Pai to follow with three panegyrics in 1947; Vaishakhi, Prabhasa and Dehali, narrated the last days of the Buddha, God Krishna and Gandhi respectively. His Hebberalu (Thumb, 1946) dramatises the story of Drona and Ekalavya, characters from the epic Mahabharata.

K.V. Puttappa ('Kuvempu'), who would subsequently become Kannada's first Jnanpith awardee, demonstrated great talent in writing blank verse with his magnum opus Sri Ramayana Darshanam (1949). This work marks the beginning of modern Kannada epic poetry. The work, through the use of metaphors and similes, focuses on the concept that all living creatures will eventually evolve into perfect beings.

Other important works of the period are Masti's Navaratri and P. T. Narasimhachar's Hanathe. D. V. Gundappa's Mankuthimmana Kagga (Dull Thimma's Rigmarole, 1943) harkened back to the wisdom poems of the late medieval poet Sarvajna. A celebrated writer of conjugal love poems, K. S. Narasimhaswamy won critical acclaim for Mysore Mallige (Mysore Jasmine, 1942), a description of the bliss of everyday marital life.

Late Navodaya and the rise of the progressives

As the Navodaya period waxed, the Pragatishila (progressives) movement led by novelist A. N. Krishna Rao ('Anakru') gained momentum in the early 1940s. This left-leaning school contended that literature must be an instrument of social revolution and considered the Navodaya to be the product of aesthetes, too puritanical to be of any social relevance.

This movement drew both established and young writers into its fold and, while it produced no poetry or drama of special merit, its contributions to short story and novel forms were appreciable. Pragatishila was credited with broadening readers' horizons; works produced during this period dealt extensively with subjects of everyday life, rural themes and the common man.

The language was less inhibited and made generous use of colloquialism and slang. Anakru himself was a prolific writer of novels but the best works of this school are attributed to T. R. Subba Rao ('Ta Ra Su'), Basavaraju Kattimani and Niranjana.

Marked as its influence had been, the Pragatishila wave was already in decline by the close of the 1950s. Legendary writers of the previous era continued to produce notable works in the Navodaya style. In poetry, Bendre's Naku Tanti (Four Strings, 1964) and Kuvempu's Aniketana (1964) stand out. V.K. Gokak brought out the innate insufficiencies of the more advanced western cultures in Indilla Nale (1965). Navodaya-style novels continued to be successful with such noteworthy works as Karanth's Mookajjiya Kanasugalu (Mookajji's visions, 1968).

Masti's two classic novels of this era were Channabasavanayaka (1950) and Chickaviarajendra (1950).

S. L. Bhyrappa, a charismatic young writer, first came to attention in the 1960s with his first novel Dharmasri, although it was his Vamsavriksha ("Family Tree", 1966) that put him in the spotlight as one of Kannada's most popular novelists.

Navya

In the 1950s, even as the Pragatishila merged back into the Navodaya mainstream, a new modernist school of writing called Navya emerged. Though formally inaugurated by V. K. Gokak with his Navya Kavitegalu (Modern Poems, 1950), it was Gopalakrishna Adiga who best exemplified the ethos of the movement. Poetry and, later, the short story became the most effective vehicles of the movement.

With the passing of the Gandhian era and its influences, a new era in which to express modern sensibilities had arrived. The Navya writers questioned the time-honoured standards of plot of the Navodaya; life was seen not as a pursuit of already existing values, but as an introspective search for them, occasionally narrated in stream of consciousness technique. Events and details were increasingly treated metaphorically and the short story grew closer to poetry.

Gopalakrishna Adiga is considered the father of this form of expression with his Nadedu Banda Dari (The Path Traversed, 1952) where he sought inspiration from T. S. Eliot and W. H. Auden. His other well-known poems include Gondalapura (Pandemonium, 1954) and Bhoota (1959).

G. S. Shivarudrappa made his mark in the Navya period with Mumbai Jataka (A Horoscope of Bombay, 1966), which takes a closer look at urbanised society in Mumbai. A protégé of Kuvempu, Shivarudrappa's fame came the peak of popularity of romantic poems with his Samagma (Songs of Equanimity, 1951), poems distinguished by an idealistic bent.

K. S. Narasimhaswamy remained prominent through this era, writing such landmark poems as Silalate (The Sculptured Creeper, 1958) and Gadiyaradangadiya Munde (Before the Clock Shop). Chandrashekhara Kambar, Chandrashekar Patil, P. Lankesh, and K. S. Nissar Ahmed are among the best-known later generation Navya poets.

Outstanding playwrights from this period are Girish Karnad, P. Lankesh, Chandrashekhara Kambara and Chandrashekar Patil. Karnad's Tughlaq (1964) portrays violence caused by idealism gone astray. Considered an important creation in Kannada theatre, the play depicts the 14th-century Sultan of Delhi, Mohammad Tughlaq in contrasting styles, a tyrannical and whimsical ruler and at the same time, an idealist who sought the best for his subjects. Most plays written by Karnad have either history or mythology as their theme, with a focus on their relevance to modern society.

The most acclaimed novel of the era was Samaskara by U.R.Anantha Murthy (1965). The novel details the search for new values and identity by the protagonist, a Brahmin, who had sexual intercourse with the untouchable mistress of his heretic adversary. Another notable work is the Swarupa (1966) by Poornachandra Tejaswi. Anantha Murthy's Prasne (1963) contains his best collection of short stories including Ghatashraddha, which describes the tragedy that befell a young pregnant widow, from the point of view of a boy. His collection Mouni (1973) includes the stories Navilugulu (Peacocks) and Clip Joint.

The Navya movement was not without its critics. The doubt, dilemmas and indecision in every turn of the plot resulted in increasingly sophisticated and complex narrations, which some readers found uninteresting. It was derided as an intellectual exercise of the middle class intelligentsia; in its extreme sophistication, it was thought to have lost its touch with realities of life. This led to a gradual waning of the Navya school as it was supplanted by emerging waves of Navyottara, Bandaya (protest) and Dalit schools.

Marked as its influence had been, the Pragatishila wave was already in decline by the close of the 1950s. Legendary writers of the previous era continued to produce notable works in the Navodaya style.

VISIONARIES WHO

In every epoch of this world, change has come through men with rare understanding of situations...Men who have the power to think collectively for the people. All power indeed go weak compared with that of them. And for Karnataka there were a few such men who had the courage to think ahead, into the future.

Aluru Venkata Rao

Aluru Venkata Rao was a historian, writer and journalist. He is revered as Karnataka Kulapurohita (High priest of the Kannada family) in the Karnataka region for his contribution towards the cause of a separate Karnataka state. He became famous for undertaking a Karnataka Ekikarana movement.

Rao began by contributing articles to newspapers such as Chandrodhaya, Karnataka Patra, and Rajahamsa Karnataka Vritta. In 1906 he began to work as an editor for a monthly magazine, Vagbhushana.

In November 1922, he started Jaya Karnataka, a monthly magazine that published articles on a variety of topics. About 27 books written by Rao have been published, the first of which was Vidyaranya Charitre in 1907.

His other works include Karnataka Gatha Vaibhava, Karnataka Veeraratnagalu, Karnatakathva Sutragalu and Karnatakathva Vikasa. In 1907, he organised a conference of Kannada writers and the next year started the Karnataka Grantha Prasarada Mandali.

In 1930 he presided over the Kannada Sahitya Sammelana held at Mysore. In accordance with the wishes of Tilak, he translated the former's work Gita Rahasya from Marathi to Kannada.

He independently interpreted Bhagavad Gita and authored the books Gita Prakasha, Gita Parimala, Gita Sandesha, Gita Kusuma Manjari in Kannada.

Kengal Hanumanthaiah

Kengal Hanumanthaiah graduated in Arts from the Maharaja College in Mysore in 1930 and later earned a degree in Law from Poona Law College in 1932. After his graduation, he joined the bar council in the same year.

At that time, the independence movement was steadily growing and at the centerstage of the movement was the Indian National Congress led by Mahatma Gandhi. Dr. P. Tandon, the then President of Indian National Congress, advised Hanumanthaiah to give up his active practice at the bar and to devote himself to the freedom struggle.

During the movement, he was jailed more than seven times. He was unanimously elected as the leader of the Parliamentary Party wing of the Congress Party in Mysore Assembly in the year 1948. Also, he was a member of the Constituent Assembly of India.

He became the second Chief minister of Mysore state in 1952, following the victory of the Congress party in the first general elections. His tenure as Chief Minister was marked by activities aimed at uplifting the rural population of the state.

Kuvempu

Kuppali Venkatappa Puttappa, popularly known by his pen name Kuvempu, was a poet, playwright, novelist and critic. He is widely regarded as the greatest Kannada poet of the 20th century. He was the first Kannada writer to receive the Jnanpith Award. Kuvempu was born in Hirekodige, a village in Koppa taluk of Chikmagalur district.

Kuvempu began his academic career as a lecturer of Kannada language at the Maharaja's College in Mysore in 1929. He worked as an assistant professor in the Central college, Bangalore from 1936.

He re-joined Maharaja's college in Mysore in 1946 as a professor. He went on to become the principal of the Maharaja's college in 1955.

In 1956 he was selected as the Vice-Chancellor of Mysore University where he served till retirement in 1960. He was the first graduate from Mysore University to rise to that position.

He initiated education in Kannada as the language medium. For his contributions to Kannada Literature, the Government of Karnataka decorated him with the honorific Rashtrakavi (National Poet) in 1964 and Karnataka Ratna (The Gem of Karnataka) in 1992.

He was conferred the Padma Vibhushan by the Government of India in 1988. He penned the Karnataka State Anthem Jaya Bharata Jananiya Tanujate.

Anakru

Arakalagudu Narasingarao Krishna Rao, popularly known as Anakru, was one of the best-known writers in the Kannada-language and was popularly known as Kadambari Sarvabhouma (Universal monarch of Novels). The inception of the Pragatishila (progressive) movement in Kannada literature is credited to him.

At the start of his career, he edited literary Kannada magazines such Katha Manjari and Vishva Vani. He was also an editor of the Kannada Sahitya Parishath's publication Kannada Nudi (Kannada speech).

Anakru was nominated as the president of 42nd Kannada Sahitya Sammelana held in Manipal. Anakru fought for the unification of Kannada speaking regions, when Kannada speakers were spread across different provinces in British India. He started a movement to promote and popularise Kannada.

Goruru R Iyengar

Goruru Ramaswami Iyengar was born at 'Goruru' in Hassan district in 1904. Goruru was influenced by Indian Independence Movement and became a staunch follower of Mahatma Gandhi. He was jailed by the British administration in 1942 for two months for his participation in the Quit India Movement and in 1947. His son Ramachandra became a martyr for the same cause in 1947.

After Independence in 1947, Goruru worked in the industries. He began writing early in life with the celebrated books Halliya Chithragallu (1930) and Namma Oorina Rasikaru (1932).

His Amerikadalli Goruru (1979) is a satirical travelogue of a true Indian in United States. It fetched him the Sahitya Akademi Award in 1981. His short story Bhootayyana Maga Ayyu (based on true events) was made into a Kannada movie of the same name by noted director S. Siddalingaiah in 1975. Novels Hemavathi and Urvashi were also made into movies. His travelogue was made into a television series. His other works include Rasaphala, Namma Oorina Rasikaru, Putta mallige, Hemavathi and Garudagambada Dasayya.

His Rajanartaki was a translation of the Gujarati novel Amrapali by Ramachandra Thakore.

He was nominated to Karnataka Legislative Council in 1952 in recognition of his literary contributions. In 1971 he was a recipient of an Honorary doctorate from the University of Mysore.

G Hallikeri

Gudleppa Hallikeri (1906–1972) was a native of Hosaritti in Haveri. He started a residential school Gandhi Grameena Gurukul in Hosaritti. Hallikeri worked with many other freedom fighters such as Mahatma Gandhi, Mailara Mahadevappa and Sanikoppa, using peace protests and non-violence. He participated in the Non-cooperation Movement in 1920-22 and in all other freedom struggles. Hallikeri actively worked with Aluru Venkata Rao in the unification of Karnataka. He was elected General Secretary of the Karnataka Pranta Congress Committee at the Ranibennur Session of K.P.C.C. presided over by Gangadhar Rao Deshpande. Karnatak Lingayat Education Society's Gudleppa Hallikeri Arts, Science & Commerce College in Haveri, is one of the colleges in North Karnataka, named after him.

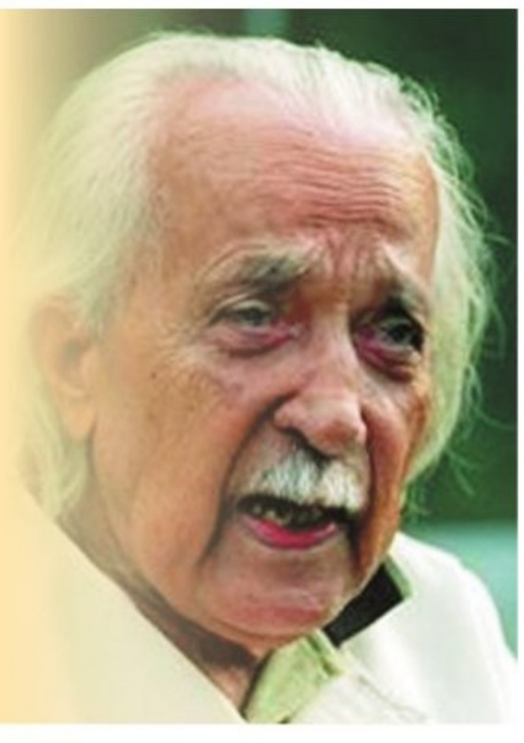
Kota Shivaram Karanth

Kota Shivaram Karanth (10 October 1902 – 9 December 1997), also abbreviated as K. Shivaram Karanth, was a polymath, who was a novelist in Kannada language, playwright and an ecological conservationist. Ramachandra Guha called him the "Rabindranath Tagore of Modern India, who has been one of the finest novelists-activists since independence". He was the third writer[5] to be decorated with the Jnanpith Award for Kannada, the highest literary honor conferred in India.[6] His son Ullas is an ecological conservationist.[3]

His participation in the Non-cooperation movement did not allow him to complete his college education which he quit in February 1922. He canvassed for khadi and swadeshi in Karnataka led by Indian National Congress leader Karnad Sadashiva Rao, for five years till 1927. By that time, Karanth had already started writing fiction novels and plays.

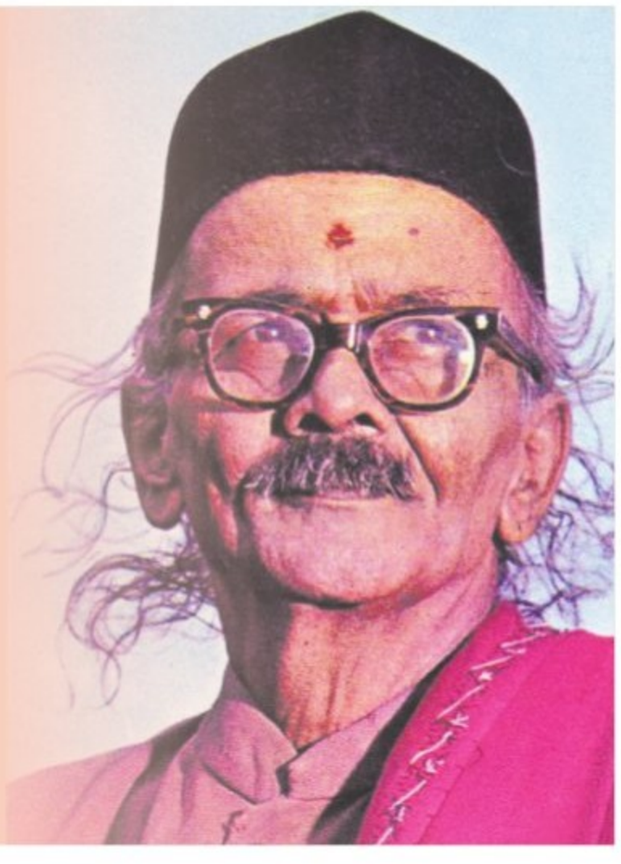
Karanth began writing in 1924 and soon published his first book, Rashtrageetha Sudhakara, a collection of poems. His first novel was Vichitrakoota. Subsequent works like Nirbhagya Janma (Unfortunate Birth) and Sooleya Samsara (Family of a Prostitute) mirrored the pathetic conditions of the poor. His magnum opus Devaddhootaru, a satire on contemporary India, was published in 1928.

Karanth was an intellectual and environmentalist who made notable contribution to the art and culture of Karnataka. He is considered one of the most influential novelists in the Kannada language.



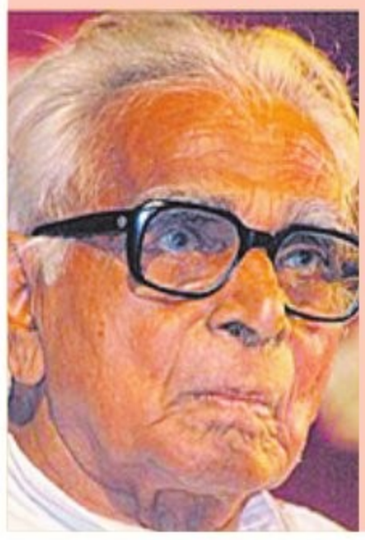
Da Ra Bendre

Dattatreya Ramachandra Bendre, popularly known as Da Ra Bendre, was considered the greatest Kannada lyric poet of the 20th century and one of the greatest poets in the history of Kannada literature. A pioneering poet of Kannada's Navodaya movement and a leading figure in the linguistic renaissance of Kannada in the region of North Karnataka (then part of the Bombay Presidency), Bendre forged a new path in Kannada literature and modern Kannada poetry through his original use of desi Kannada, particularly Dharwad Kannada – the form of Kannada spoken in the North Karnataka region of Dharwad. The richness, originality, and euphony of his poetry, his preternatural feel for the Kannada language, and his charismatic personality would result in him being hailed as a Varakavi (boon-gifted poet-seer) by the Kannada people.



DARED TO DREAM

K K Rai



Kayyara Kinhanna Rai was born on 8 June 1915 in a Tulu-speaking Bunt family. Rai started his career as a secondary school teacher. He also delved into journalism and contributed his writings to newspapers like Swabhimana, Madras Mail and The Hindu. He received the National Award for Best Teacher in 1969. He was a writer and poet who wrote books on theatre, grammar and children. Some of his famous poems are Shreemukha, Aikyagana, Punarnava, Chethana and Koraga.

Rai was a campaigner for the merger of Kasaragod district into Karnataka. One of his main goals was to seek the implementation of the Mahajan Committee Report, which urged the inclusion of the northern part of Kasaragod district into Karnataka.

Huligol N Rao

Huilgol Narayana Rao was born on 4 October 1884 and became a popular playwright in the modern Kannada literature. In the same spirit, he was also a freedom fighter.

Narayana Rao is best known as the poet who composed the then state anthem of the Karnataka State Udayavagali Namma Cheluva Kannada Nadu which heralded the birth of Karnataka .

The popular song was sung by Huilgol Narayan Rao and Gangubai Hanagal at Karnataka Unification Conference held in 1924, which was also the venue which hosted the 1924 Indian National Congress Session in Belgaum.

S Kambli

Sir Siddappa Totappa Kambli (born 1882) was a politician from Hubli. Kambli was a member of the Bombay Legislative Council and was elected as its Deputy President.

Under the system of dyarchy, he served as a minister of agriculture from 1930 to 1934 and minister of education from 1932 to 1937.

After the provincial elections of 1937, a government was formed under Dhanjishah Cooper where Kambli was made minister for Education, Excise & Agriculture. As a minister of education, Kambli was responsible for the establishment of Karnatak University in Dharwad.

After independence of India, Kambli joined the Kisan Mazdoor Praja Party. Along with Aluru, Gudleppa Hallikeri, R H Deshpande, Rangarao Diwakar among others, Kambli played a crucial role during unification.

R H Deshpande

In 1890, R H Deshpande founded the famous Karnataka Vidyavardhaka Sangha at Dharwad. He actively helped establishment of Kannada Sahitya Parishad (Kannada Literary Academy), and the Karnataka College at Dharwad — a premier college in the years to come.

He encouraged budding Kannada writers like Prahlad Naregal, Krishna Kumar Kallur, and S.G. Kulakarni, each one of whom went on to become established writers.

Deshpade started a periodical Vagbhushana, which became the mouth-piece for the revival of Kannada. He wrote ten books in Kannada, the most famous of them being Karnataka Samrajya in two volumes. He breathed his last while working on the third volume.

N S Hardikar

Narayan Subbarao Hardikar was born in Dharwar in 1889. He studied medicine at the College of Physicians and Surgeons, Calcutta and then went to the United States for higher education.

Hardikar returned to India in 1921. During the Flag Satyagraha of 1923, Hardikar and his Hubli Seva Mandal gained national prominence after they refused to apologise to the British authorities to gain a commutation in their prison sentences. This resistance prompted the Congress to set up an organisation along the lines of the Mandal to groom a band of volunteers to combat the British Raj. The Hindustani Seva Mandal was thus formed in 1923 and later rechristened the Seva Dal.

V K Gokak

Vinayaka Krishna Gokak, abbreviated in Kannada as Vi. Kru. Gokak, was a historian and writer in the Kannada language and a scholar of English and Kannada literatures. He was the fifth writer to be honoured with the Jnanpith Award in 1990 for Kannada language, for his epic Bharatha Sindhu Rashmi. In 1961, Gokak was awarded the Padma Shri from the Government of India for Dyava Prithvi. He was an ardent devotee of the spiritual guru Sathya Sai Baba and served as the first Vice-Chancellor of Sri Sathya Sai Institute of Higher Learning, Puttaparthi, between 1981 and 1985, after a stint with the Bangalore University.

His novel Samarasave Jeevana is considered one of the typical works of Navodaya literature in Kannada.
